THINK SOUTH WILL VEER TO HOOVER FLAG

Former Coolidge Secretary, "Rounder-up" of South Joins Commerce Head

IMPORTANT FEATURE

Sleep Assured Cal's Nomination in 1924; Knows Both Old and New Guards

Washington.—The practical politicians have gotten to work in earnest in the pre-convention campaign. Announcement that C. Badcom Sleep, formerly private secretary to President Coolidge and one of the ablest political generals in the country, has joined the Hoover ranks, taken to mean that the southern delegates who on more than one occasion have been rounded up by Mr. Sleep will be found now with the secretary of commerce.

It is one of the most important developments of the week in national politics. Mr. Sleep was one of the men who helped assure the nomination of Mr. Coolidge in 1924 and he knows both the old guard and the new guard in the republican politics.

The chief weakness in the Hoover campaign of 1920 was that it was not organized by the practical politicians. It had been assumed his year that Mr. Hoover knew nothing of politics and that this was his principal source of strength with the public. But to get a nomination the practical politician is essential. Observing the Hoover sentiment, however, many of the political leaders have come over to the Hoover standard.

It now remains to determine just how far the politicians will have joined in the Hoover camp have been right in their guess on public sentiment. The Ohio primary next month probably will prove the turning point in the campaign. If Mr. Hoover proves a real vote-getter the effect will be felt in other states.

NEEDS OHIO VOTE

If Mr. Hoover were to make a clean sweep of Ohio against a veteran like Senator Willis, it would bring him many delegations from other states. If, however, he divides the state and gets a small minority of the delegates, his managers will point to the significance of his battle and it will be accepted as a sign he is a real factor in the campaign but it will not influence other states. Each state will furnish a battle unto itself.

Mr. Hoover doesn't prove an outstanding vote-getter they will want to keep Mr. Coolidge in reserve for the ever-possible deadlock.

SMITH HAS OPPOSITION

On the democratic campaign the Al Smith managers are up against some real opposition in various states that might have been counted as not unfriendly.

The idea of uninstructed delegation is gaining in favor because of the flexibility that may be desired if the convention goes into a deadlock. The wet and dry issue has come to the surface more prominently than might have been the case if Governor Smith were not so conspicuous in the race. States which do not wish to make the issue personal are taking a stand against a "wet" candidate because it is in line with their traditional position. When all these states are counted up it will be found that unless some of them are stampeded into a change the one third veto against the New York governor will be evident on the first few ballots.

NEWSPAPERMEN MEET TO IMPROVE SERVICE

Milwaukee.—(P)—Members of the Wisconsin Associated Press made further plans for improving service to its actual reading audience of 600,000 of the 2,800,000 residents of the state, at the spring meeting held Monday.

The afternoon and evening sessions were attended by 40 publishers and editors representing a total of 30 daily newspapers in Wisconsin co-operating through their organization in bringing the news of the world and the state to their reading constituencies.

BOY GETS MINUTE IN JAIL FOR BURGLARY

Woodstock, Va.—(P)—One minute in jail and a fine of $5 was the sentence given here to Cecil Wilson, 21-year-old Washington youth, for participation in a $2,000 bank robbery at Mount Jackson, Va., last July, with three others including two young women.

2,000 GENERAL MOTOR WORKERS GO ON STRIKE

Oshawa, Ont.—(P)—Three hundred striking trimmers of General Motors of Canada were reinforced Tuesday by all other piece workers in the plant, bringing the total of men out to 2,000. The men object to cuts in the pay schedule.

Weather Conditions Hold German Flyers To Ground

Baldonnel Airdrome, Dublin.—(P)—With their Junkers plane Bremen ready for the most hazardous venture of the air, the night across the Atlantic from east to west, three silent Germans waited Tuesday on wind and weather. They were Captain Hermann Koehl, Baron Von Huenefeld and Arthur Spindler, who flew Monday from the Tempelhof field near Berlin over a course of nearly 1,000 miles in about nine and one half hours.

The Irish Free state gave them welcome and as it became known that another attempt was to be made to span the Atlantic, Irish pulses were started. It was the very daring of the thing, in the face of those who had gone before and had never been heard from, that appealed.

LEAVE IN MORNING

As the hours passed it seemed unlikely that conditions would be favorable for a start Tuesday, then 5 o'clock Wednesday morning was tentatively fixed and 30 hours the time for the flight from Baldonnel to Mitchell Field, New York. The course will be by way of Newfoundland, but the final decision depends on the weather and the reports from the weather experts.

The plane behaved so perfectly in the flight from Tempelhof Airdrome, Berlin, and arrived in such good shape that it was believed to need comparatively little attention.

BLAINE DISGUSTED WITH EMPTY SEATS

Badger Senator Waxes Sarcastic at Few Senators at Session

Washington.—(P)—The usual vista of empty seats in the senate chamber evoked the ire of Senator Blaine, Republican, Wisconsin, Monday when he continued the opposition which has assumed filibuster proportions against the Norbeck migratory bird refuge bill.

Norbeck, the South Dakota Republican, who is author of the bill under consideration, objected to Senator Blaine continually calling "for the attention of the senator from South Dakota" when he reached a point in his speech which he wanted noted especially.

"I don't see why the senator from Wisconsin has to call on me to listen to every argument against this bill which he thinks important," Norbeck said.

"Well, I don't see how I could call on empty seats," Blaine replied.

A survey showed that only three senators were in their seats and one was walking across the chamber toward an exit. Of the three, two were ruling.

One other senator occupied a seat but he was tied down to a certain text—Senator Sheppard, Democrat, Texas, was in the chair presiding in the absence of Vice President Dawes.

WARDENS POWERFUL

Washington.—(P)—Changes of political influence at the hands of "400 or 500 game warden" provided in this bill" were made by Senator Blaine, Republican, Wisconsin, Monday during discussion of the Norbeck bill to establish a migratory bird refuge.

Although Senator Norbeck, Republican, South Dakota, author of the measure, which twice was passed in the senate, declared that game warden would be restricted to the state in which preserves are located, Blaine said that "if Herbert Hoover is nominated for the presidency, there is nothing in this bill to prevent the use of these 400 or 500 game warden of the state of Wisconsin in his favor."

MABEL BOLL PLANS FOR FLIGHT OVER ATLANTIC

New York.—(P)—Still hoping to be the first woman to fly the Atlantic, Miss Mabel Boll Tuesday was making plans for a trans-Atlantic attempt with Wilmer Stultz as pilot.

The "Queen of Diamonds" announced that she had signed Stultz as pilot and was negotiating for the trimotor Fokker originally intended for Commander Richard E. Byrd's South pole expedition. She said she also intends to take daily training flights so as to qualify for a pilot's license.

BADGER ROBBED IN GOTHAM CALLS FIRE DEPARTMENT TO AID

New York.—(P)—John Estberg, Waukesha, Wis., broker, who was bed of $200 and jewelry by a taxi driver who dumped him out in a strange part of town early Tuesday, and then thinks began to happen.

Estberg followed directions of a well-meaning passerby and pulled a convenient hook for a policeman. To his astonishment, he was greeted by four engine companies of 22 men, two hook and ladder companies with 16, two battalion chiefs with their drivers, a water tower manned by three, a fire patrol, gas and electric emergency outfits and an assorted group of detectives, special police and patrolmen.

BADGER CHOSEN FOR FEDERAL TRADE JOB

Washington.—(P)—Andrew T. Lundquist of La Crosse, Wis., was Monday appointed manager of the Pacific coast office of the federal trade commission at San Francisco.

Sheldon Whitehouse of New York, has been transferred from the post of counselor of embassy at Paris to be counselor of embassy at Madrid.

MISSING PHONE GIRL VISITED GIRL FRIEND

Milwaukee.—(P)—Missing since Saturday night, Alice Christian, 18-year-old telephone operator for whom a statewide search had been started, returned home Monday night, explaining that she had spent the weekend with a girl friend.

OUTLINE COAL PROBLEMS FOR SENATE GROUP

United Miner Leader Tells of Attempts to Break Collective Bargaining

Washington.—(P)—The competitive struggle between the southern and central bituminous mining fields for the Northeastern and Northwestern markets was outlined to the senate coal investigation committee Tuesday by Percy Telser, president of the Western Virginia section of the United Mine Workers.

The union leader contended that the West Virginia operators had conspired to break the collective bargaining principle even though they were having the advantage in the winning of markets through a favorable freight rate differential and ability to produce good quality coal cheaper by reason of a lower wage scale than prevailed elsewhere.

DENOUNCE POLICE

Telser said that 95 per cent of the coal mined in the southern West Virginia fields went to markets outside the south. He then launched into a denunciation of the system of police commissioned by the state but paid by the operators.

"Police power has been abused in West Virginia more than any state in the union," he continued, "largely because the operators do not believe in the union or collective bargaining."

CAN'T SUGGEST REMEDY

Except to say that "we need legislation," Telser was unable to suggest specific remedies for the coal problem. At the outset of Tuesday's hearing, Chairman Watson announced that the second invitation for Governor Fisher of Pennsylvania, to appear would be postponed due to the large number of witnesses already called. It has been decided to complete discussion of the West Virginia situation before reverting to Pennsylvania or Ohio. Watson also denied published reports that the committee is considering calling Henry Ford as a witness.

TO STARTLE PUBLIC

Chicago.—(P)—From a source in touch with affairs of the Illinois Coal Operators association came a report Tuesday that the action the association will take Wednesday three days before its temporary agreement with the United Mine Workers, will "startle the public."

Rice Miller, president of the association, declined to comment upon the ultimatum. He did, however, say a definite plan of action would be presented.

There was a rumor that relationship with the miners would be broken off, but that report could not be traced to any authentic source.

ZIMMERMAN TO MAKE PLUMMER DECISION

Madison.—(P)—Governor Fred R. Zimmerman indicated Tuesday morning that he expected to make a decision within the next two or three days in the case of Walter Plummer, Sheriff of Winnebago county, against whom ouster proceedings were conducted by Frank B. Koefe, district attorney.

Gov. Zimmerman has been reading for several days excerpts from the more than a million words of testimony presented at the hearing. Heretofore, Plummer, who acted as the governor's judicial commissioner in the hearing, presented the case to the governor without recommendation.

QUEEN MARIE, ILEANA TAKE TRIP TO CYPRUS

Constantinople.—(P)—Queen Marie of Rumania and Princess Ileana, who are enroute to the island of Cyprus, left Stamboul Tuesday in the Rumanian vessel Regale Carol.

Rumors are current that the trip is being taken for political purposes and that former crown prince Carol is going to Cyprus. Rumanian circles here, however, claim that it is being taken because of Princess Ileana's health.

M'Nary-Haugen Farm Bill Returns To White House

Washington.—(P)—Farm relief as embodied in the McNary-Haugen bill Monday appeared to be embarked on another legislative voyage that promises to return to the White House for the second consecutive year.

The measure, however, has been renovated since its last journey. After weeks of consideration, it sponsors claim to have eliminated, with the exception of the equalization fee machinery, practically all of the features that were objected to by President Coolidge in vetoing the bill's predecessor.

Assurance that such a trip again would be possible came late Monday when the measure survived the last voting skirmish in the house agricultural committee. With its committee approval by a 15 to 6 vote, it now stands in the house, as in the senate, as the farm bill endorsed by the majority of both the agriculture committees of congress.

Representative Purnell of Indiana contends that the federal farm board, which the measure would create, is directed under the bill to endeavor to stabilize the farming industry by use of the non-cooperative provisions before it can resort to the equalization plan.

The bill would authorize an appropriation of $100,000,000 for loans to cooperatives, while the measure as drafted by Chairman McNary of the senate committee, and endorsed by that body, would authorize a loan of only $25,000,000.

Each bill would give the president a free hand in selecting the membership of the proposed board except for the constitutional requirement that nominations must be approved by the senate.

Lindy Officially Moves Self From Public Focus

Washington.—(P)—Acclaimed as no other individual in the history of the nation, Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh officially withdrew himself from public focus Tuesday to follow his long cherished pursuit of a normal American citizen.

Ever since he made his memorable trans-Atlantic non-stop flight ten months ago from New York to Paris, Lindbergh has been feted and honored continuously in world capitals, in the smaller cities of his native country and in the halls of great legislative bodies, until it seemed his tall, frail physique must soon crack under the strain.

STILL UNDECEIVED

Lindy doesn't know what he's going to do just yet, his airplane was tuned up Tuesday at Bolling Field to take him whenever and wherever his desires, but it is safe to say he wants no reporters around when he takes off.

The Flying Colonel wound up his six-day propaganda school in aviation at the local army station Monday by taking aloft more than 200 members of the Washington diplomatic corps and their friends.

Taken up in 22 groups, they brought the flyer's total passengers in six days to approximately 1,100. In all, 110 flights were made, averaging 15 minutes each at a speed of 90 miles an hour and covering about 2,400 miles over Washington and nearby Virginia.

TREASURY ISSUES TAX BILL WARNING

Administration Tries to Show "High Cuts" Danger of Methods

Washington.—(P)—Further ammunition for the impending tax reduction battle in the senate was heaped up to the front by administration forces in an attempt to convince the high cutters that they are "wrong, wrong, & dangerous."

Despite increased tax receipts for the first quarter, treasury officials threw out the warning that congress estimates in its appropriations and other large items starting it in the future. It was pointed out that to vote more than a $200,000,000 tax reduction without creating a deficit.

This is $25,000,000 less than the original recommendation made by President Coolidge, but $90,000,000 less than the cut provided for in the bill passed by the house and now awaiting action in the senate finance committee.

President Coolidge is understood to have informed the treasury that he would veto any tax reduction measure that endangers the government's fiscal health, and with this in mind his supporters in the senate finance committee, which takes up the measure April 4, are laying plans to lop off an appreciable slice from the $200,000,000 measure.

TEACHER THINKS CAMEL LIVES IN UNITED STATES

Chicago.—(P)—Examination of a camel skull found recently in Utah has convinced Prof. Alfred S. Romer, paleontologist at the University of Chicago, that the animal, believed extinct for 500,000 years, lived in the western part of the United States in comparatively recent times.

Flesh still adhered to the skull, the general appearance of which indicated, Dr. Romer said, that the animal "lived quite possibly as late as 100,000 years ago."

Prof. Romer believes the camel originated in America and spread to the way of the Bering straits to Asia.

VALUE WESTERN UNION PROPERTY $84,995,384

Washington.—(P)—The property of the Western Union Telegraph Co., located within the United States, was tentatively valued Tuesday by the Interstate Commerce commission as of June, 1919, at $81,995,384.

The company's capitalization on the same date was $129,732,726, and its book investment was $155,453,119.

MILWAUKEE MAN DEAD AS RESULT OF STORM

Milwaukee.—(P)—Milwaukee Tuesday was busy clearing four inches of snow and ice from its streets following a snowstorm and gale which deluged traffic and directly cost the life of one man.

Albert J. Schabring, South Milwaukee, was caught by a gust of wind at his home Monday, slipped down an outside cellar stairway and fractured his skull. He died almost instantly.

Numerous minor accidents were recorded as a result of slippery streets.

FLORODORO COMPOSER DIES AT LONDON HOME

London.—(P)—Leslie Stuart, church organist who became a successful composer of musical comedies, is dead at the age of 61.

In 1909 he composed the opera, whose name is always linked with reminiscences of the nineties in America—"Florodora."

TRIES MURDER

When Chief of Police H. L. Blake of Columbiana, Ala., was found not guilty of murder in the death of a woman, the case was thrown back to the state court.

Montebello is being held on a charge of assault with intent to murder.

CHICAGO GANG BOMBS HOME OF U. S. SENATOR

Fifth and Sixth "Political Blasts" Aimed at Deenen and Crowe's Opponent

Chicago.—(P)—The fifth and sixth "political bombs" since Jan. 26 were exploded shortly before last midnight. One was aimed at the home of United States Senator Charles S. Deenen. The other was thrown in an attempt to assassinate the Deenen candidate for state's attorney, Judge John A. Swanson of the circuit court.

Senator Deenen, who had attended the funeral of the murdered Diamond Joe Esposito Monday, had started back to Washington. His sister, Miss Florence Deenen, and a maid, were alone in the home when the bomb shattered the front of the two-story frame structure. Windows within the block were broken.

Twenty minutes later one of two men in a closed car hurled a bomb directly at the automobile which Judge Swanson was driving into his garage. The bomb missed the car, exploding near the front of the Swanson home and doing some damage.

HAD SCORED CROWE

The Swanson home is a block from the residence of George E. G. John, United States district attorney, who said Tuesday that he was in view of the government attack involved, the Deenen home being the official home of an officer of the United States.

Judge Swanson was returning from a political meeting in which he had scored a victory over the Deenen candidate for state's attorney, Judge John A. Swanson of the circuit court.

NO LAW ENFORCEMENT

"Law enforcement has been completely broken down," said "Proctor and Gamble" employees, who said they were in the line of the bombing, which the senator had called his home.

He had been in the line of the bombing, which the senator had called his home.

LADY BAILEY RESUMES FLIGHT TO CAPE TOWN

Cairo, Egypt.—(P)—Lady Mary Bailey resumed her London to Cape Town flight at 7 o'clock Tuesday morning, having left for Khartoum. She will be joined there by Lieutenant R. E. Bentley, who agreed to accompany her over the Sudan danger zone. The authorities refused Lady Bailey permission to continue her flight over this region unless she accepted an escort.

SOLDIERS KILL REBEL CHIEF, EIGHT OF BAND

Mexico City.—(P)—Dispatches from Zamora Tuesday said the chieftain Ignacio Robles and eight insurgent followers were killed and two federal soldiers wounded in a clash at La Guadalupe, near Toluca, state of Michoacan.

The federal soldiers overtook a band of about 35 men and dispersed them according to General Claudio Fox. He said two other insurgents were killed during the pursuit.

WISCONSIN LEADS IN SEEKING PLANS FOR RESTORING FORESTS

Forestry Conference at Milwaukee This Week Is Biggest of Kind Ever Attempted

Milwaukee—(P)—Wisconsin takes the lead in the quest for solution of reforestation and forestry problems with the meeting of the Wisconsin Commercial Forestry conference here Wednesday and Thursday.

The conference is unique in being the first regional or state conference ever held to consider all of the commercial interests involved in reforestation, and other states which are concerned with the same problems as Wisconsin are watching its outcome with interest.

Sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, the gathering will discuss forestry problems from the seedling to the final growth, and the products into which it is transformed, and will endeavor to work out some plan whereby the state can be assured a future supply of timber, halting the present rapid depletion.

Representatives from lumbering, railroad, civic and state, manufacturing and other interests will be present.

Selective logging—the cutting only of certain trees and leaving others to insure a steady growth; the planting of trees, and the enlistment of the cooperation of everyone from the farmer with his small "woodlot" to the lumber company's huge plantations of timber are among other subjects to be discussed at the conference.

MANY INDUSTRIES REPRESENTED

The heads of the executive and educational department of the state will be present with Gov. Fred R. Zimmerman and President Glenn F. Smith of the University of Wisconsin speaking.

Newspapers, with their need of pulp for the manufacture of newsprint paper, are among the interests to be represented and will display a prominent part in the meetings. Educational work will be considered.

The conference excludes no feature of forestry interest. On the problems of the lumbermen as well as the problems of the recreational organizations there will be discussion.

The railroads, because of their quadruple interest in reforestation and forestry, are expected to have a large representation at the conference, according to Sen. Oscar H. Harris of the Milwaukee Association of Commerce, one of the men in charge of arrangements for the meeting.

The roads which operate in Wisconsin, Morris explained, are interested in reforestation and forestry because they need trees for the upkeep of tracks and for their lines, because they transport and chip timber from the woods; because they haul the lumber after it has been sawed and because they haul the products made from lumber.

The Chicago and Northwestern, Soo Line and Milwaukee roads all will have representatives at the meeting. From the Northwestern road will come Fred W. Sargent, its president and from the Soo and Milwaukee roads prominent officials and land representatives, endorsing it.

DISCUSS NEW LAW

The Forest Products Laboratory of Madison is taking a prominent part in the conference as is the University College of Agriculture. The new forest crop law will come up for discussion by its author at the conference with State Senator George W. Blanchard of Edgerton presiding over the session at which it will be the principal topic of discussion.

Subjects to be discussed on the first day of the conference, Wednesday, March 28, are:

"A birds eye view," by D. E. Everest, conference chairman; "The land and forest situation in Wisconsin," by Dean H. L. Russell; "The land situation," B. H. Hubbard, University economics professor; "The forest situation," Dr. Raphael Zor; "The need for land classification," Walter A. Duffy, commissioner of agriculture; "What forests mean," Wm. Mauthe, chairman conservation commission; "To the public," Alvin C. Reis, assemblyman; "To the lumber industry," M. P. McCullough, Wausau; "To the paper and pulp industry," E. E. Senn, Green Bay; "To the forest products industry," Kimberly Clark Co.; "To the railroads," H. S. Larimer, Chicago Northwestern Railway Co.; "To resort owners," Eurt Williams, Land O'Lakes Magazine; "To outdoor organizations," W. J. P. Abernethy; "The Wisconsin manufacturer," George P. Kuhl, Wisconsin Manufacturers Assn.; "To retail lumbermen," Ben P. Springer, Pres. Wisconsin Retail Lumbermen's Assn.; "To employees," R. G. Knutson, State Industrial Commission; "To the state press," C. E. Broughton, Sheboygan Press; "How to meet the forest situation," W. J. P. Abernethy, session chairman; "Responsibility of State, general public and private land owner in forest fire prevention and suppression," Fred W. Luenig, Milwaukee Journal; "An example of fire protection and suppression on private lands," C. L. Ceell, Cornell Wood Products Co., Duluth; "What is needed for a forest fire prevention and suppression plan," C. L. Harrington, Supt. of State forests and parks.

At a banquet in the evening the address of welcome will be given by Hon. Daniel W. Hoan, mayor of Milwaukee, followed by "Commerce and Forestry," by a representative of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce; "The interdependence of forest fire and industry," by a speaker of national prominence.

"The importance of forests to the social welfare of Wisconsin," by President Glenn Frank of the University and "A glance ahead in Wisconsin forestry," by Governor Fred R. Zimmerman will be the closing talks of the evening.

LOCAL MEN TO SPEAK

Speeches of Thursday beginning at 9:45 are: "Commercial forestry," F. K. Bessell, chairman; "The state responsibility in a commercial reforestation program," L. B. Nagler, director of Conservation; "Progress in farm timber forestry," F. G. Wilson, extension forester, University of Wisconsin; "Reforestation on the Nekeosha-Eduards Holdings," J. F. Alexander, Nekeosha-Eduards Holdings; "The possibility of logging operations," W. A. Holt, Holt Lumber Co., Land and Lumber Co.; "Financial aspects of forest development," Walter

Years Fall Lightly On Medina Civil War Vet

BY W. F. WINSEY

Medina—Solomon Rhoades of this village is one of the three survivors of Company I, Thirty Second Wisconsin Regiment of Civil War service and fame. The other survivors of Company I are Irving W. Elliott, Second St., Algona, and Francis J. Favill, Box 65, Ogdensburg, Wis.

In 1862, Mr. Rhoades enlisted for the term of the war, drilled on the college grounds in Appleton under Captain George Woods, and was assigned to Company I, Thirty Second Wisconsin Regiment with Colonel Howe in command. Company I joined the regiment at Camp Bragg, Oshkosh. After some drilling the regiment was sent to the front near Memphis, Tenn. After some arrival in the southern city, the regiment was almost constantly in action until it was mustered out at Washington, D. C., at the close of the war.

Mr. Rhoades was, with his company and regiment in Sherman's march from Atlanta to the sea, and in its movement from the sea to Washington.

According to the veteran, the regiment was almost constantly in action but the heaviest engagements were about Atlanta. Although he by no means escaped injury, he was never wounded nor injured during his military experience, and spent only a few days in a military hospital as a result of drinking contaminated water.

Sol Rhoades was born on December 13, 1832 in Onandage-co., N. Y. and has passed his 95th birthday. His mother died when he was 10 years old. His father was one of the victims of the black cholera on its first appearance in the state of New York. Seven uncles and the grand parents of Sol Rhoades are buried in the little cemetery south of Medina.

In 1836 he moved to Medina-co., Ohio, and in 1854 joined a party of thirty relatives bound for Outagamie-co. Wis. So little did the party know about geography, means of traveling and travel itself, that it boarded a boat at Cleveland bound for Toledo and from the latter point took the Michigan Central Railroad for Chicago, instead of taking passage on through vessels.

After arriving in Chicago, the party made its way north by team, making short stops to visit relatives at Spring Prairie and at the John Ross farm south of Oshkosh. The party crossed the Fox river at Oshkosh on a log bridge, and made the last stop at the homes of Elias and Andrew Rhoades near the location of the present village of Medina.

The subject of this sketch, Sol Rhoades, says he built the first rail fence on the south side of the road that passes through Medina. Stephen Balliet, who knew that the party came from Medina-co. Ohio, named their settlement in Outagamie-co. "Medina." Before naming Medina, he had named the Dale settlement, "Poker Flax."

He is in comparatively good health and looks like a strong competitor for the century mark. His mind is as clear and his appreciation as snappy as when he entertained his comrades in camp with the latest jokes.

'COURTESY MAILBOX' MAY BE TRIED AGAIN

Wettengel Wants It Used Exclusively by Motorists if Service Is Restored

A "courtesy mailbox" so placed that motorists may deposit letters without leaving their cars parked in the traffic lane and blocking passage of other machines, was installed in Appleton six or seven years ago but because of its abuse by the general public it was removed, according to F. F. Wettengel, acting post-master.

Such mailboxes are being installed in several other Wisconsin cities and Mr. Wettengel said that postal officials here are considering installation of a similar box providing the public would not again abuse this privilege. "When we had the box formerly, many clerks and patrons who could otherwise have walked into the post office to deposit their mail, would use the box outside," Mr. Wettengel said. "During the rush hours when the box was used by motorists it would be filled with mail by people who could walk into the postoffice just as well as to stop outside."

"While the clerks did not mind emptying the box frequently when it was filled legitimately, they felt that it was not necessary for the general public to use the box," Mr. Wettengel said. "Finally it was felt that the box was serving no real purpose because it wasn't available to those for whom it was intended and so it was removed. If we could have the general public understand the purpose of the box and that it was to be used by motorists only we might again install such a box."

TRADES COUNCIL MEETS

The Appleton trades and labor council will meet at 7:30 Wednesday evening at Trades and Labor Hall. Routine business matters will be transacted according to Fred E. Bachman, president.

"Immature lumber as a business investment," G. Harold Earle, Wis. Kaslen, Milwaukee, "Forest Utilization," Howard P. Weiss, session chairman, Forest Laboratories, Madison; "The importance of close utilization of forest products to the profitable growing of trees," C. P. Winslow, Forest Products Laboratory Madison; "To what extent can better utilization extend the life of lumber industry," O. T. Swan, Northern Hemlock and Hardwood, Assn.; "What producers and manufacturers are doing to improve marketing of forest products," C. C. Collins, C. Collins Lumber Co., Rhinelander; "Forest Taxation," Sen. G. W. Blanchard.

The forest crop law will be discussed by Eugene Wengert, conservation commission; W. J. Merkel, John Schroeder Lbr. Co., Milwaukee; W. R. Wheaton, The Pulpwood Co., Appleton; Carl Foll Dearfield; R. E. Goodman, Goodman Lbr. Co., Marinette; "Summation and resolutions," D. C. Everest and "What forward steps have been developed by the conference," "Resolutions," Sen. G. W. Blanchard.

K. T. Rich, Prof. Agricultural Extension, will read Exhibits, extension and distribution of forestry literature.

BRUSEWITZ WARNS DRIVERS TO KEEP OFF UNPAVED ROADS

Highway Commissioner Says It Is Impossible to Keep Check on Roads Now

Unpaved roads in Outagamie-co are not safe for travel at present and motorists should not take a chance by using them, according to a warning issued Monday by A. G. Brusewitz, county highway commissioner.

"We are daily receiving reports of sink holes and washouts of which we had not previously known, and until we have several weeks of dry weather it will be necessary to keep off the roads unless it is known for a certainty that the road is open," Mr. Brusewitz said.

The steel-trucks purchased by the highway department are to be given their first trials this week when the department will use them to bridge some of the worst sink holes on the most important roads so that traffic may be maintained.

The rutts are about fourteen inches wide and come in sections ten feet long. The two rutts are joined together to keep them from spreading. These are placed over the muddy sections and automobiles can then cross. The county has 2,000 feet of such sections.

Many reports have reached the highway office, according to Mr. Brusewitz, from motorists whose cars have become mired.

"With the recent thaws and the warm weather causing the frost to leave the ground, there is little we can do to insure unpaved roads," Mr. Brusewitz said. "Often a road goes bad overnight or from one hour to the next and no matter how much inspecting we do, we cannot find and remedy all the bad spots and the safest thing to do at present is to keep off of the unpaved county and state trunk highways."

Mr. Brusewitz said large trucks often broke through the surface of the road and smaller automobiles had a hard time to get through. He said the side roads are practically impassable. "Everything possible is being done by the highway department here but we cannot vouch for all unpaved roads," Mr. Brusewitz said.

APPLETON MAN TO FACE CHARGES AT MANITOWOC

Clifford Deeg, Appleton, who was fined $10 and costs by Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court Monday after he was found guilty of assault and battery, was arrested Tuesday morning by Sheriff Otto Zuehlke and turned over to Manitowoc police who held a warrant for his arrest on a charge of removing mortgaged property without the consent of the owner.

Deeg was arrested last week on complaint of his divorced wife who charged he beat and kicked her. The complaint against Deeg at Manitowoc is made by a garage owner there who claims Deeg left that city with a mortgaged car which had been purchased from the garage there. Deeg was taken to Manitowoc by Detective W. J. Lam Christiansen.

KNEES SWOLLEN TWICE THEIR SIZE

"My knees and ankles were so swollen I looked deformed. And the pain was unbearable. Every move was agony. When a friend employee suggested 'St. Jacob's Oil' I tried it only half-heartedly. On a application brought immediate relief and soon the terrible soreness and swelling had completely gone." Nothing draws out the pains of sore muscles and serves like good old "St. Jacob's Oil." It's one remedy you can absolutely depend on to relieve Rheumatism, Lumbago, Backache, Neuralgia—and it doesn't burn the skin. BADGER PROFESSOR SAYS FARMERS ARE MORE OPTIMISTIC

Are Becoming Economically Independent Is Prof. Otis' Conclusion

Madison—(P)—Farmers over the United States are optimistic; are approaching equality of prices between agricultural and non-agricultural products and through diversification, are becoming more economically independent, in the opinion of Prof. D. H. Otis, director of the agricultural commission of the American Bankers association. His views are based on observations during a trip through 31 states. He held conferences with agricultural college heads, bankers and farmers.

While prices are not on a par as yet, he said, the farmer is optimistic that they soon shall be. "Beef is commanding a better price and cotton this year is also bringing a fair price," Prof. Otis is quoted as saying.

"Wheat farmers are beginning to carry a more extensive cattle stock and cotton planters are buying some swine or planting a vegetable garden to provide for their family needs and save grocery bills," he said. He declared that diversification is apparent in the fashion in other lines.

"Introduction of labor saving devices is also credited with making the farmer more convenient to his farm work and thereby more efficient and consequently more happy."

Prof. Otis holds that the end of the presidential campaign will bring a quieting influence that will further benefit the farmer.

Prof. Otis works with Dean H. L. Russell, of the state agricultural college, chairman of the advisory council of the bankers agricultural organization. Other members of the advisory council occupy positions similar to Dean Russell's.

In each locality the A. B. A. has a "key" banker selected for his ability to keep in touch with agricultural problems. His duty is to keep the connection between the bank and the farm and to diagnose with the county agricultural agent in this county the things in which the banks may give the greatest aid.

A recent Dane-co Wisconsin project, was the aid for farm boys in corn raising. This line of promotion of boys and girls club work was carried out by the banks furnishing the seed corn and purchasing an allotted portion of the boys' output. The county aided in the project by instructing the boys on proper planting and growing methods. The corn was exhibited by the banks of the county. The banks and farmers are mutually benefited, Mr. Otis said. He detailed the application of one farmer for a loan from one of the banks shortly after one of these projects was completed.

LETTER GOLF

NAGGING GOLFERS

Polo is merely cavalry golf, so there isn't much difference, even in letter golf, between GOLF and POLO. In fact, it's a par four. One solution is on page 5.

THE RULES

- 1.—The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change Cow to Hen, in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEV, HEN.
- 2.—You can change only one letter of common usage, for each jump. Clang words and abbreviations don't count.
- 3.—You must have a complete word, at a time.
- 4.—The order of letters cannot be changed.

WARM WEATHER MAKES HIGHWAYS IMPASSABLE

Continued warm weather has made earth sections of state highways practically impassable according to the weekly highway report issued by the Wisconsin Highway commission.

The highway department recommends that no extensive trips be made at present except on hard surfaced roads. Conditions of light surfaced roads will become worse as warm weather continues, the report points out, and at present practically all counties are limiting gross loads to 3,500 to 4,500 pounds on class B roads and 6,000 pounds on class A roads.

Appleton Diners Demand Many Dishes, Survey Shows

The amount and kind of food which people consume varies according to the kind of work they do and in the opinion of Appleton restaurateurs, it just varies. "Everything from soup to nuts" is an ideal way of describing the variety that exists in the three meals we serve each day, said one proprietor.

It used to be "sinkers and coffee," "sinkers and coffee" every morning of the week. Now it's waffles, wheat, cakes, hot and cold cereals, eggs, toast, oranges, grapefruit and a dozen other different articles. People now consume a large amount of fruit for breakfast, which is perfectly in harmony with the fundamentals of dietetics.

When dinner comes around, the restaurant's troubles begin. The "soup to nuts" phrase is especially applicable. It is true, however, that people eat less at noon than they do at the evening meal. This is becoming more and more prevalent, because people are discovering that they can work more efficiently and feel much better if they eat sparingly at noon. Salads are popular at noon, also roasts prepared in various ways.

The most food is consumed at the evening meal. People of the working class who are compelled to carry a light lunch at noon, order heavy steaks, such as T-Bone and sirloin. Another reason for a greater amount of food consumption the evenings is the unlimited time to eat. At noon most people are anxious to get back to their work and therefore devour their food in a hurry.

More apple pie is consumed for dessert than any other kind of pie or dessert. Closest contenders for second place are cherry and pumpkin.

HERE'S CHANCE TO BUY A GOOD BRIDGE

The old turn-table bridge removed from its position across the Fox river canal at Little Chute to make way for a new overhead-weight bascule type bridge, will be sold at public auction at the office of A. G. Brusewitz, county highways commissioner, Wednesday afternoon.

The new bridge, which is under construction at present, will have a lift which is drawn straight into the air. The old bridge is being used at present as a temporary foot bridge. The sale is being made by Mr. Brusewitz on order of the county highway committee.

OLD AGE PENSIONERS IN OUTAGAMIE-CO GET $23,037 IN 2 YEARS

Only Five Badger Counties
Have Adopted Pensions
Since Law Was Passed

Since the old age pension law was passed in Outagamie-co in 1926, there has been $23,037.25 spent by the county in caring for those who were granted pensions, according to an annual report compiled by the state board of control.

In accordance with the state law, the amount spent in Outagamie-co, $9,077.08 or one-third of the amount spent in the two years. In 1927 there were 93 men and women in the county receiving pensions.

The amount expended in the county in 1926 was $12,554.25 while in 1927 it was $16,546.17. In 1926 the refund was $4,218.08 and in 1927 it totaled $5,461.

Only five counties in the state, Outagamie, Wood, Brown, LaCrosse and Sawyer, have approved the old age pension since it was made a state law in May 1925. Outagamie-co, which adopted the law by a two-thirds vote of the county board in January, 1926, was the third county to adopt the pension law.

A total of $117,565.24 was paid out by the five counties since the law went into effect and of this amount the state has paid $39,188.42. In 1926 the total spent was $67,526.74 as compared with $49,638.50 in 1927. Refund to counties for 1926 was $22,642.25 while in 1927 it was $16,546.17.

Pensions range from $5 to $30 while the average is $19.08. In Outagamie-co the average is $17.08, the lowest of four counties. Other averages were: La Crosse, $15.11; Sawyer, $22.05; Wood, $23.05. Twenty-six of the pensioners in Outagamie-co receive $20 per month; 19 get $15 a month; 15 get $10 per month, four receive $30 a month; and only one gets $5 per month.

Of those receiving pensions in this county 57 are males and 35 females. In Outagamie-co they range in age from 70 to 95 years. Of the total, 45 are between 70 and 75 years of age and only two are over 90 years.

Twenty-two of the males are married, seven are single, 26 are widowers, one is divorced and one is separated. Of the women, seven are married, three single, 25 widows. Fifteen of those receiving pensions, own their own homes, one has some real estate and the other 77 have no property.

Sixty-seven of the pensioners here have children. A survey shows there are 236 children of parents receiving pensions. These 236 children have 774 children of their own to support.

With 32 Germans receiving pensions, that nationality head the list, with Americans, of whom 30 are receiving aid, a close second. Nationalities of others receiving pensions are as follows: Indians, 8; English, 5; Irish, 3; Dutch 7; French, 2; mixed, 2; and Australian, Danish, Canadian and Norwegian, one each.

MAYOR BELIEVES TAG DAYS ARE PASSE HERE

Only Two Were Held in Appleton Last Year Mr. Rule Points Out

Tag days in Appleton are almost passe, according to Mayor Albert C. Rule, and to prove the assertion points out that only two were held last year and indications are that there will be only one this year. The annual tag day of the Salvation Army is the only day which city hall officials will sanction.

Appleton solved the problem of tag days a year or so ago when the city council went on record as opposing them and asked the mayor to discourage the practice whenever possible.

He since has acted accordingly and when requests have been taken to the council it has acted on the mayor's recommendation and in accord with its first declaration.

Other Wisconsin cities are also frowning upon tag days and residents of Sheboygan will approve or disapprove tag days at the final election, April 18. The question there has been submitted to the voters in the form of a referendum.

An occasional tag day here is not objected to by city officials, it was said, if the funds collected are to remain in the city. However, the majority of the tag day promoters take money out of the city, a practice which does not meet with favor by city officials.

INCREASE LIMIT ON MAIL TO SWITZERLAND

The parcel post weight limit to Switzerland has been increased from 22 to 44 pounds according to information received Monday at the Appleton Post Office. Parcels in this class must not be more than four feet long, 24 inches in girth or 44 inches wide. Parcels over 44 inches wide must not be more than 16 inches in girth and parcels 3 1/2 or less feet long must not exceed six feet in width and girth combined.

AVOID DIZZY SPELLS

Never well. Always tired and fagged out. Beauty tossed away by neglect. To be beautiful and to keep youth the system must be free from poisonous backwash of constipation which often causes dizzy spells. For 20 years, Dr. F. M. Edwards gave his patients, in place of calomel, a compound of vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. Known by their olive color. They free the system of poisons that ravage health, energy, beauty.

You need never have sallow complexion, dull eyes, coated tongue, throbbing headaches—all signs that your bowels are clogged. Liver is torpid. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly. They act smoothly and without gripping. How much better you feel and look! Everywhere wise men and women who know the value of good health take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. All druggists, 15c, 30c and 60c.

LOCAL WIFARE ON 'HOTEL MERCHANTS' HEARD ELSEWHERE

Appleton has gained the reputation of being a "hot" place for hotel "merchants"—men who sell merchandise or take orders after showing samples which they carry with them and exhibit in hotels.

Milwaukee is confronted with an epidemic of this kind and is seeking relief for the situation. A letter to Kenneth Corbett, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, has been received from the Milwaukee Association of Commerce asking what methods are being employed here to abate the nuisance.

An active police chief is the solution," Mr. Corbett wired back.

EXPENSE FOR FAIRS EXCEED RECEIPTS

More Than a Million and a Half Dollars Taken in but
Cost Exceeds That Amount

Madison (AP).—Wisconsin county and district fairs took in $1,508,653.27, in 1927, according to a report issued by the state commissioner of agriculture.

The Chippewa Falls fair had the largest receipts, $33,234.72. The Elkhorn fair was second in receipts with $21,053.65, and the La Crosse fair third with $8,181.88.

The total expense for the fairs exceeded the receipts, being $1,510,865.07. The total number of paid admissions for all county and district fairs in the state was 952,041. In paid admissions the Elkhorn fair led with 68,724, Chippewa Falls second with 52,915, and La Crosse, with 39,515 third.

The state aided the fairs of Wisconsin with a total of $289,102.77. Appropriations to the district fairs amounted to $182,614.41.

Premiums amounting to $387,141.55, were given by the fairs last year. In addition to this amount $7,318.27, was spent for ribbons and banners that were awarded prizes.

Sixteen of the 73 district fairs in Wisconsin are county owned. Ten are owned by municipalities, and the remaining 47 are owned by fair associations and societies with the exception of the Ashkosh fair which is owned jointly by the county and a society.

In an opinion recently handed down by the state attorney, generally, the commissioner of agriculture, through the county agricultural agents, has the power to enforce state statutes pertaining to fairs, which gives him power to regulate gambling and immoral shows on fair grounds.

CITY HAS REPUTATION FOR INVESTING MONEY

Appleton evidently has gained a reputation of being a place where people have money to invest, according to the daily letters received by Kenneth Corbett, secretary of the chamber of commerce from dealers and individuals who have something to sell.

The latest to arrive is a letter from a Milwaukee currier, who has 85,000 acres of timber land in West Virginia that he would like to dispose of.

Acid Stomach

"Phillips Milk of Magnesia"
Better than Soda

Hereafter, instead of soda take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes threefold as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gas. It neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges the souring waste from the system without purging. Besides, it is more pleasant to take than soda. Insist upon "Phillips" fifty-five cent and fifty-cent bottles, any drug store. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Co. and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

New Addition To "Gups" Family In Local Aquarium

Appleton can boast of a species of fish which ordinarily inhabit tropical water, but locally live in the waters of Mr. H. Heilig's aquarium. The members of this species are becoming very numerous according to Mr. Heilig who reports an addition of 12 new members to the school of tiny fish called the "Gups". "Guppi-girardinus" scientifically, called "gups", commonly, attain a maximum length of 3/4 inches for the male and an inch and a quarter for the female.

The male of the species, as is characteristic of most males of the various classes of animals, is beautifully colored. At the posterior end is a red spot outlined in a field of blue. The female is of a dull grey color. The young fish are born alive, not being hatched from eggs as are the majority of other kinds of fish. The fish are about a quarter of an inch long at birth.

The "guppi" are surface feeders. Due to this fact the government planted them in the Panama canal zone to eat the dangerous mosquito larvae that infests the waters of that region. The mouth is near the top of the head thus enabling them to grasp the larvae of the mosquito as it appears on the surface of the water.

Mr. Heilig feeds the fish that he has in his possession nothing but dried shrimp. The rest of their food is obtained from wild celery that grows in the aquarium.

COUNTY TREASURER PAYS FOR SCHOOL AID

Checks for a portion of the state school aid for 1928 were mailed Monday by Miss Marie Ziegenhagen, county treasurer, to town, city and village clerks. A total of $52,297.75 was sent out Monday and sometime in July, after the state income taxes are collected, the balance of $31,918.05 will be paid.

$36,200 SPENT BY CITY IN 2 MONTHS

One-fifth of Total Budget
Is Expended in One-sixth Year

Although only one-sixth of the fiscal year has passed the various departments of the city of Appleton have spent more than one-fifth the money allotted them in the city budget. It was indicated Monday in the financial report of the city clerk for January and February. Expenditures during February were $36,199.59 and with those of January reached a total of $120,801.35. The budget was estimated at $544,312.00 last December when it was made and there now is a balance of $423,516.65 left with which to carry on the remainder of the year's business.

Street cleaning during the last two months has cost the city $3,320.42 of which $3,118.32 was spent during February, the result of snow storms during the month and expense involved in thawing catch basins after every freeze. Only $289.75 remains of the $3,000 which was allotted for tax rebates. Rebates to date have amounted to $2,719.25.

The lack of employment during the last few months and cold weather with the resultant drain on the city poor department is shown in the fact that one-fourth the appropriations have already been expended. Of the $12,000 placed on the budget for poor, only $8,917.63 remains, $3,082.37 having been expended. A little more than $1,724.55 was spent during February.

George Fiedler, postmaster at Seymour and former chairman of the county board, is spending a two weeks vacation at Orlando, Fla.

Blackheads Go Quick By This Simple Method

This is a simple method that makes blackheads go as if by magic. Get two ounces of Calomel powder from your drug store, sprinkle a little on a hot, wet cloth, rub briskly over the affected parts, and in two minutes, you will find every blackhead dissolved away entirely.

Herman Ihde, Neenah, route 9, is a patient at Mercy hospital, where he submitted to an operation at Mercy hospital last Wednesday.

HEARING ON BRIDGE
AT MENASHA PROVES TO BE SHORT AFFAIR

Government Men Call for Questions and Depart With Report for War Department

Menasha—The public hearing conducted by Lieut. Col. J. J. Kingman of the United States engineering office of Milwaukee at the city hall Monday afternoon lasted only half an hour. There were not to exceed 25 persons in attendance and among them were N. P. Hayes of the state highway commission, Madison; A. F. Everett, in charge of the United States office at Appleton; H. J. Menard of the Northern Railway company, Green Bay; Thomas W. Orblison, Appleton; and city officials of Menasha.

Lieut. Col. Kingman stated the purpose of the hearing, which was to consider the application of state highway commission of Wisconsin for the approval of plans for the reconstruction of a permanent bridge across the government canal at Tayco-st and to consider a temporary foot bridge across the same canal about 100 feet east of Tayco-st bridge.

The record of the hearing will be forwarded to the war department together with a copy of his report, Lieut. Col. Kingman said. He also said that the war department was particularly desirous at this time to submit rules for construction of the two bridges. "Therefore," said the presiding officer, "anything you may have to say should be stated at this time. Later experts statements and arguments are not desired by the war department unless they relate to some facts that could not be brought out at the present time in which case expert statements are submitted to the other side."

Lieut. Col. Kingman then read the government statute relating to navigable waters, and inquired if there were any written statements to be submitted. Two were turned over to him, one by Mayor Hennel on the necessity of the reconstruction of Tayco-st bridge and the other by Cook & Brown Lime company of Oshkosh. Both statements were read. The former was to the effect that the present structure was built in 1880, is smaller and lighter than present day traffic requires.

The bridge has only a 16-foot roadway with an interurban railroad track in the center. There are only five and one-half feet each side of the track and interurban cars are required to come to a complete stop on entering or leaving the bridge. There is scarcely room for two trucks to pass each other.

Numerous automobile accidents have occurred on the bridge in the last few years. Federal highway at crossing there and traffic is known to be extremely heavy. It is one of the busiest highways in Wisconsin. The city of Menasha presents this statement for the necessity of the new structure. It was signed by Mayor N. C. Hennel and Alderman Joseph Coyle, chairman of the bridge committee.

The statement of Cook & Brown Lime company was then read. The company expressed concern as to its fleet of barges and boats and claimed that if any of them were damaged under the new arrangement they would hold the parties liable. The presiding officer inquired if there were any oral statements and upon receiving no reply, announced that the hearing was adjourned.

MENASHA
PERSONALS

Menasha—Grace Finch, who has been visiting Menasha relatives, has returned to Milwaukee. She was accompanied by Miss Edna Finch.

Mrs. H. B. Sutton has returned from several days visit with friends at Two Rivers.

Mrs. J. J. Schnitzer will visit De Pere Wednesday to attend the ninety-second birthday anniversary of her mother, Mrs. J. M. Smith. She will be accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. Philip Braun.

BALANCE IS SPEAKER
AT KIWANIS MEETING

Menasha—F. N. Belanger, acting district manager of the Wisconsin Bell Telephone company was the principal speaker at a meeting of the Kiwanis club Tuesday noon. The speaker declared that there is nothing new in the telephone industry that few improvements had been made since the original telephone was invented, except that the principles had been highly developed since that time.

BLAZE IN BASEMENT
CAUSES SMALL LOSS

Menasha—The fire department was called to Jacob Liebl's residence on Thursday Monday afternoon when a fire started in the basement from a furnace pipe. The blaze was put out before much damage was done.

TRAFFIC DELAYED AS
CAR LEAVES TRACK

Menasha—Street car traffic was temporarily delayed shortly before 7 o'clock Tuesday morning when the front trucks of an interurban left the rails while making the curve at the corner of Racine and Main-st.

COUNCIL TO MEET

Menasha—An adjourned meeting of the common council will be held Tuesday evening at the city hall. Considerable unfinished business from the regular monthly meeting will be taken up.

TRANSFER SCOUT MEET

Menasha—The court of honor which Twin City scouts were to have held at the city hall next Friday evening has been transferred to the Methodist church gymnasium at Appleton. It will be open to the public.

DOCK STEEL DREDGE
FOR SPRING REPAIRS

Menasha—Navigation on Fox river below Menasha lock will open at 6 o'clock next Monday morning. At that time the steel dredge Winneconne, which is in winter quarters just above the lock, will be taken to Kaukauna where it will go into drydock for repairs. The coffer dam just below the lock, which was put in last November when the work of repairing the lock was commenced, will not be removed until two weeks later when navigation opens on the Upper Fox.

FOR POWER COMPANY

Plan to Go Ahead With Building of Tayco-st Bridge and Leave Tracks Off

Menasha—In order that the Wisconsin highway commission may not be delayed in advertising for bids for the construction of the proposed new Tayco-st bridge by the action of Wisconsin Michigan Power company deciding to go before the Wisconsin railroad commission and ask for permission to remove the tracks between Menasha and Kaukauna, City Attorney Silas Spengler and members of the bridge committee decided Monday to call on the commission at Madison to find out if the power company is to be granted a hearing and if so to suggest an early date.

"The city's plan now is to go ahead with the building of the bridge without making provision for the operation of interurban cars over it which will constitute a saving of approximately $13,000, according to McMan Engineering company which drew the plans. The Wisconsin highway commission has notified the city of Menasha that it will not advertise for bids for the building of the bridge until the power company and city of Menasha come to an agreement as to the amount of money the power company is to pay for operating its interurban cars over the new structure."

SOCIAL ITEMS AT
MENASHA

At the meeting of the Women's Benefit association Monday evening, the members decided to attend the district drive to be held at Oshkosh on April 24. The drill team will put on a fancy drill. Mrs. McGregor of Neenah, district deputy, gave a talk and lunch was served by members of the birthday club. The committee in charge was composed of Mrs. Osterstag, Mrs. Ganyzke and Mrs. Boehnlein. The evening's program closed with cards, dancing at schaffkopf being won by Mrs. Klutz and Mrs. Hays, and a whist by Mrs. H. Driscoll and Mrs. Ada Ilesman. The Merry-makers will meet with Mrs. Clough on April 9. Owing to the hall being in use on April 9, the next meeting will be held Monday evening, April 2.

VOLLEY BALL GAMES

Menasha—The Go-Getters and the Old Guard will play the second round of their series of volleyball games at the Congregational church gymnasium Tuesday evening. The first group of games was won by the old guard.

HAS NARROW ESCAPE
AS TRAIN HITS CAR

Auto Refuses to Turn and Neenah Man Jumps to Safety in Few Feet of Tracks

Neenah—With just barely time enough to jump from his car and save himself from death or injury by being run down by the 11:18 north bound Chicago-Northwestern passenger train, Philip Reimer, Monday night stood in the center of the road and watched the train crash into his auto as it continued across the tracks without a driver.

Mr. Reimer was on his way home when the accident occurred. He advanced toward the Wisconsin crossing, saw the wig-wag signal working and attempted to bring his car to a stop but failed. He attempted to turn it to the right onto Walnut-st, but the car refused to turn. All the time he was sliding onto the track in front of the approaching train. Grasping the last resort, he managed to scramble out of the car door and allowed the car to proceed. The train approached slower than usual and struck the car in the rear, throwing it onto the terrace at Shattuck park.

BANKING INCREASES
AT NEENAH SCHOOLS

Neenah—A total of $116.58 was deposited Tuesday morning during the weekly banking at the four grade schools, the sum showing deposits made by 555 pupils. At Lincoln school, with its sixth grade one hundred per cent, a total of $11.21 was deposited by 107 pupils; at Roosevelt school, with fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades one hundred per cent, a total of $48.42 was deposited by 275 pupils; at Washington school, a total of $41.24 was deposited by 105 pupils and at McKinley school with third, fourth and fifth grades one hundred per cent, a total of $15.88 was deposited. The total deposits show a big gain over the last few weeks.

TWO PAY FINES OF $5
FOR DRUNKENNESS

Neenah—J. Luebben and Leo Schmidt were each fined $5 and costs in justice courts Monday night on drunk and disorderly charges. Peter Hanson, arrested on a similar charge, has not yet appeared in court.

NEENAH YOUNG MEN
TAKE OVER AIRPORT

Organization Formed for Purpose of Keeping Aviation Before Twin Cities People

Neenah—Initial steps were taken Tuesday morning by a group of twin city young men, in organizing what is to be known as Paper Cities Airway association. Papers have been signed and officers and directors will be elected at a meeting to be held Tuesday evening. The new association has leased the Neenah-Menasha air port at the south limit of the city and after contemplated improvements have been made, will be opened for the association's use. Citizens, donated by a public spirited citizen, will be hauled and placed where needed.

The association intends to purchase two light planes for use in training of students in the sport and later to arrange to purchase a Travel Air monoplane of the same type as visited the port last year during the Legion state tour. W. J. Noll, pioneer aviator of Neenah, has been retained again for the reason for instruction in aviation from the start. Several Frederick's. Mr. Noll holds the highest licenses in aviation required so far by the government. Another pilot, a Neenah boy, may be retained for commercial work as local manufacturer are feeling the need of quick transportation in their respective business. Several young ladies have signed up for a course of instruction and will be ready to fly by fall.

The association was formed by Neenah-Menasha younger set to keep aviation before the cities' people and to keep the twin cities foremost in aviation from the start. Several large group accompanied the team to the depot Tuesday morning and gave it a rousing sendoff.

PREDICT THERE WILL BE MORE EMPLOYMENT

Spring Weather Is Cause of
More Jobs According to Bulletin

Madison—(AP)—The Wisconsin Retail Bulletin predicts prospects for increased employment in Wisconsin. Spring weather brings this bright outlook, according to the bulletin, prepared by the University of Wisconsin.

The prediction is based on a compilation of figures from records of the Industrial Commission, employment offices in ten cities for 1925 and 1927. These figures show that the number of applicants for each available job has been greater in January than in any other month, the number decreasing progressively through spring until June, when a secondary increase in applications for work occurs. August and September have been the busiest months. During the fall and winter, more and more workers are forced to hunt for jobs.

In 1925 there were 113 applications, on the average, for every 100 jobs; in 1926 there were 112, and in 1927 there were 125.

General business conditions as affected by the coming presidential election are also forecast by a chart showing that since 1880 business has been below normal in five years, above the average in six, and about evenly divided in one. The conclusion is that political elections change basic economic conditions but little, although at times some hesitation in the general movement of business is produced.

The Retail Bulletin is issued through the cooperation of the School of Commerce and the Extension division of the University of Wisconsin. The present number contains news items and statistics of interest to the merchant, suggestions for increasing sales and improving service, advertising pointers and typical analyses of costs.

NEENAH SOCIETY

Neenah—The T. N. card club will meet Tuesday evening with Mrs. Agnes Thuesen at her home on Oak-st. The evening will be spent in playing bridge.

A delegation of Danish Brotherhood made Casper Caspersen a surprise visit Monday evening at the home of his son Walter Caspersen, and assisted him in celebrating his eighty-first birthday anniversary. Supper was served followed by playing cards.

Miss Anthea Myhr entertained her club Monday evening at her home on Caroline-st. The evening was spent in sewing.

Neenah—The Friendly club of the Neenah Women's Relief club, will be entertained Wednesday afternoon by Mrs. Walter Handler and Mrs. Warren Herrick at the home of Mrs. Handler.

The second of the community parties given for the business and professional women employed here will be given Tuesday evening at the Young Women's club on E. Dwyer-st. The party will be a spring carnival with its side shows, freaks, refreshment stands and the band which is in charge of a committee of young ladies with Miss Lella French as chairman.

DRAW JURY NAMES

Neenah—Jury commissioners Saturday drew names of 36 Winnetonka citizens to serve on the jury for the April term of circuit court, which begins Monday. The names have not been announced.

STUDENTS HEAR TALK
BY BASKETBALL STAR

"Cooperate With the Coach and Your Fellow players," Schubart Tells Players

Neenah—Leo Schubart, former high school basketball star and graduate of Neenah high school, was the speaker Monday afternoon at the Neenah school during a pep meeting for the benefit of the basketball team which left Tuesday morning for Madison to take part in the annual state tournament, starting Wednesday afternoon. Mr. Schubart spoke on "Co-operate With the Coach and Your Fellow players," claiming that nothing can be accomplished without working together. He cited the factories with their hundreds of workmen, each depending upon the other to make that certain plant a producing place. He cited the athletic teams, especially the basketball team, in which each player relies upon the other for success. "Co-operate with your captain, your coach and your fellow players, they are co-operating with you to make good so that you co-operate with them to do the same. Do what you are told at the right time, don't think that you are so good that you will make a nuisance of yourself in the eyes of your fellow players, that is not co-operation. Work with the coach, try to assist him in making history for the school and you are co-operating in the greatest sense of the word."

Following the talk, yells for the team were given, wishing it the best of success at the tournament. A large group accompanied the team to the depot Tuesday morning and gave it a rousing sendoff.

5 CITIES RECEIVE NO
INTEREST ON DEPOSITS

Madison—(AP)—Only Beaver Dam, Rhinelander, South Milwaukee and Watertown of the 40 Wisconsin cities having more than 5,000 population do not receive interest on daily balances of their city funds deposited with banks. A report by Ford H. MacGregor, chief of the bureau of municipal information, University of Wisconsin extension service, reveals this fact.

"Sound finance and good administration demand that the city and taxpayer get some benefit in the way of interest from the deposit of these moneys," the report declares.

Antigo, Appleton, Beloit, De Pere, Eau Claire, Green Bay, Janesville, Kaukauna, Manitowish, Menomonie, Neenah and Wausau, received less interest than in several years previous, the general decline in interest rates being blamed.

him from being examined by Sen. Walsh at Palm Beach.

"Whether it is oil, or water power, or no taxes on millionaires, it is all the same combination," he charged. "In their unholy greed they stop at nothing: The Mellon, Hays, Daugherty, Fall crew at Washington are of the same stripe, and are in the same combination. They are the real enemies of our government."

"They unhesitatingly trample the rights of the common man, the farmer and the workman alike. They use our marines to transfer the stolen Teapot Dome and to shoot down or be shot down by liberty-loving Nicaraguans. Finally they propose a four billion dollar battleship program to collect their toll, and extend their dominion over the world."

"The powers that fatten on stealings and graft and the greater reactions of monopoly want no Wisconsin Progressives in the Kansas City convention," Mr. Ekern declared. "They want no roll calls on rejecting Wisconsin platform."

"They say they want Wisconsin to have influence at Washington. For what? They have announced no program and dare not openly propose continuing the orgy of reactionary corruption. The only thing left is jobs—jobs for stalwart reactionaries. Ex-Senator Lenroot and Mellon's man Vits sure have been at getting their share."

In torrid Egypt nearly $450,000 worth of felt hats and only $140,000 worth of straw hats were imported last year.

English sparrows are now exceeded in number in England by the tit-lark, according to an eminent scientist.

LA FOLLETTE BLAMES ADMINISTRATION FOR FARM DIFFICULTIES

Declares Present Conditions
Mean Industrial Slavery
Unless Remedied

Wisconsin Rapids—(AP)—An attack upon the "monopolistic control of agriculture by organized wealth and a government subservient to the favored special interests," was made by Senator Robert M. LaFollette in a speech here Monday evening. The senior Wisconsin Senator is delivering a series of speeches in behalf of the Progressive Republican convention delegate candidates.

Herbert Hoover, secretary of commerce and a candidate for the Republican nomination, came in for a share of the criticism leveled against the Coolidge administration by Senator LaFollette.

"It should be observed that Herbert Hoover, who has been highly praised for helping big business to work out their program of greater efficiency and profit, has shown no statesmanship, nor interest even, in the problems of the workers," he said.

"Since President Coolidge assumed office in 1923, there have been 105,466 failures of small merchants and manufacturers, while in less than four years more small banks have failed than in the entire preceding years, sacrificed to promote the expansion of big banks and their innumerable branches," Senator LaFollette said.

"The Federal Reserve System, under the last two administrations, has been prostituted for the benefit of speculators on the New York stock exchange," he charged, "and to accomplish stabilization of credit in European countries."

The platform of the Progressive Republican delegate candidates, he pointed out, denounces the conversion of the Federal Reserve System "into an instrument by which the Nation's credit is used for the advantage of stock market speculators."

The tax burden has been shifted during the Coolidge administration, he said, to "the backs of the mass of the people." Since 1921 Andrew W. Mellon, fourth richest man in the United States, and secretary of the treasury, has succeeded in reducing the taxes on great wealth and the profiteering corporations by three billions of dollars.

WANT INHERITANCE TAX
In spite of these enormous reductions, another drive is being made to further distort the principle of graduated taxation by reductions upon the income of the rich."

The Progressives are pledged, he pointed out, to fight for the maintenance of the Federal inheritance tax, and to opposition to the Mellon tax bill which would reduce income taxes.

They are also pledged, he pointed out, to "do everything in their power to place agriculture on an equality with other industries to urge passage of the McNary-Haugh bill; reduction of railroad rates of farm products; and downward revision of exorbitant tariff duties on manufactured products."

Senator LaFollette assailed the issuance of injunctions in labor disputes, which profit "freedom of assemblage and of the press."

"In the coal miners' strike in Pennsylvania the courts have gone so far as to prohibit the singing of hymns on church property. They have delegated their authority to United States marshals, and authorized them to jail men, who, in the judgment of the marshals, are not following the orders of the court."

"This is an intolerable condition. Carried to its logical conclusion, it means industrial slavery in the United States."

Attempts are being made in this campaign, he said, "to force labor to vote for the reactionary candidates for delegates to the Republican National Convention."

"Under the leadership of A. B. Fontaine, a concerted drive has been launched to intimidate the workers in the state into surrendering their rights of citizenship."

More than a half-million dollars worth of hats imported into Egypt in the past 12 months.

Early Training Makes Music Easily Acquired

Pre-school musical training should place the child in a receptive frame of mind for the musical training that begins as soon as he enters school, according to Dr. Earl L. Baker, supervisor of music, who has been doing research work on what the pre-school period and the pre-sight reading grade period should do for the child musically.

The establishment of a rich background that will place the child in the position of wanting to learn what comes next is the aim of the pre-school period and the pre-sight reading grade period should do for the child musically.

The child must be taught to sing rote-wise. The songs should not exceed the child's vocal range; tonal correctness should be insisted upon above all other things. The songs must be simple and short and of much interest or the child's interest will lag.

Many dangers arise out of pre-school musical training. Children learn at this age to do things by imitation, rather than by reason and they are as apt to follow a bad method of doing something as they are to follow a good method. Hence, a nurse who cannot sing in tune may spoil his ear forever.

The child is not ready at this stage for the intricacies of music any more than he is ready for plane geometry or chemistry. Too many parents make the mistake of trying to force the child beyond his limits and in so doing usually succeed in implanting a distaste for music in him.

The easiest way to create a love and an understanding of music is to make music an integral part of the home. The child wants to read, he wants to see the members of the family spending much time reading; he will want music in the same way if music has a place in the home.

It is not hard to make music a part of home life. It can be done with only the help of a cottage organ and three or four boxes of collected songs, more sophisticatedly with the supplementary aid of a violin, a flute, saxophone, radio or phonograph. With large families it is not impossible to establish a family orchestra.

"Music isn't work and can be made entertaining. If sister can conquer the latest song, and the neighbors as they do at Halloween time by going around with their jack-o'-lanterns and sheets. Let them play at being troubadours, journeying from one kingdom to another, and they will like it just as much as being pirates, is the opinion of Dr. Baker.

More intelligent and appreciative listening should be established and developed at home during the pre-school years. The child can learn to distinguish between those sounds that are markedly unmusical, such as the squeak of the trolley-car round the corner, and those that are musical, such as the chiming of a church bell or the soft boom of a Chinese gong.

The attention of the child should be drawn tactfully to the great beauty of musical sounds, so that he will in time learn to listen to these in preference to obnoxious sounds.

The main desire of a child is to make a noise and he is little concerned whether the noise be a musical one or not. Hence, it is the duty of the parents to see that the child is given such a toy as a whistle, which has a definite pitch, in preference to a horn, which is capable of bad dissonances in unskilled hands. He might be given a triangle with its single clear note in preference to a mouth organ with its multiplicity of notes.

The child should be made to realize that musical sounds vary in character, that some are high and some low, some soft, some loud, some fast.

NAVIGATION OPENS HERE NEXT MONDAY

Electrification of All Locks and Other Repairs Completed During Winter

Navigation on the lower Fox river from Menasha to Green Bay officially will open at 6 o'clock Monday morning, April 2, according to information received here from Lieut. Colonel John J. Kingman, district engineer in charge of rivers and harbors with offices at Milwaukee. Navigation on Lake Winnebago and the upper Fox and Wolf rivers will not open for another two weeks. The ice in Lake Winnebago is just breaking up and probably will be retarded if there is another cold spell.

Last year navigation opened on the canal here about March 20, the earliest date in ten years. Usually the ice is out of the river and canal by April 1, so that the opening this year is not unusual.

Considerable repair work has been done on locks during the winter months and everything is in readiness for the first boat. New concrete pilings were put in the lock at Menasha and also in one at Kaukauna. Electrification of all locks was completed during the winter.

Miss Eileen Landers, a member of the Appleton Women's club hall team, submitted to an operation at St. Elizabeth hospital Monday morning because of injuries received during a game played with an Oshkosh team three weeks ago.

BERGER DESIRES RUMANIAN BREAK

B a d g e r Representative Charges Cruelty Against Racial Groups

Washington.—(AP)—The breaking of a treaty relations with Rumania is urged in a resolution prepared for introduction Monday by Representative Berger, Socialist, Wisconsin, who charges that nation with atrocities against her racial and religious minorities, including the Catholics, Lutherans, Baptists, Jews, Germans and Magyars.

"The cruelties and brutalities practiced by some of the mongrel nations of Europe, including Rumania," Berger declared, "a gain discloses how foolishly we acted when we poured out life and treasure on the European battlefield in order to safeguard and perpetuate the existence of these nations. As a result of our sacrifice Rumania has increased her territory from 53,000 to 123,000 square miles and acquired jurisdiction of 15,000,000 people in place of the 5,000,000 she ruled before."

Declaring the termination of diplomatic relations with Russia in 1911 by the United States largely due to the persecution by the czar of religious and racial minorities, Berger said the time had come when "Rumania must be made to realize that it cannot revert to a stage of barbarism without incurring the hatred of other nations."

"The severance of treaty relations," he concluded, "seems to me to constitute the most drastic step, short of war, that we can take to discharge the obligation we owe the persecuted minorities and humanity generally. That ought to make Rumania realize that this is the 20th century—something her rulers have apparently forgotten."

CHARGE RAILROADS BROKE TRUST LAWS

Washington.—(AP)—A second complaint charging violation of the anti-trust law in connection with the Lores plan for merging southwestern railroads was issued by the Interstate Commerce commission Monday against the Missouri-Kansas-Texas railroad. In the complaint, the commissioner charged that by the tentative merger agreement, the Missouri-Kansas-Texas railroad "acquiring directly or indirectly 135,000 shares of the preferred stocks and 20,000 shares of the common stock of the St. Louis Southwestern railway without the approval of the commission and in violation of the Clayton act."

SAY REED BENEFITED FROM ELECTION FRAUD

St. Joseph, Mo.—(AP)—The Republican party "does not condone nor excuse dishonesty on the part of public servants nor fraudulent practice in elections," it is contended by James A. Finch, the Missouri manager for former Gov. Lowden of Illinois, and keynote speaker at the Republican state convention Monday.

Finch attacked Senator James A. Reed's recent utterances that "honesty in government and purity of elections will be the paramount issues" in the coming campaign. Finch asserted that Reed was the beneficiary along with other Democratic candidates of alleged election frauds in Kansas City.

3 SETS OF BALLOTS WILL GREET VOTERS

Must Choose City and School Officers and Delegates to National Conventions

Appleton voters will have three sets of ballots to mark when they go to the polls, Tuesday, April 3, final election day for city and school officers and delegates to the national political conventions. While only one ballot is marked in the latter case, the voters will be given four sets of ballots, one for each of the four leading parties, Republican, Democratic, Socialist and Prohibition.

The city election ballots will contain the names of all city officers who are running for office and in the case of the wards, the men who are candidates for aldermen. The school board candidates will be listed on a separate ballot and the third ballot will be that for preferential delegates to the national political conventions.

All ballots will be marked in the usual manner except those for preferential delegates. In this case, the voter will mark only the ballot of his preferred party and will tear it from the group. The marked ballot will be deposited in one ballot box, the remaining ballots in another box and will be destroyed immediately after the closing of the polls.

SPENDING MR. FRICK'S MONEY

"No question is ever settled until it is settled right."

That is why the League of Nations issue will not down. There are enough people who can see dark skies ahead for the nations of the world, our own included, unless simple, direct and courageous plans are put in operation to offset the natural tendencies of evil influences that invariably result in armed conflict.

It is well to bear in mind some of the propaganda that was used to defeat the entrance of the United States into the League of Nations. It was much the same sort of propaganda that is constantly used in our political campaigns. Much of it is of the chestnut variety but there is no doubting its potency.

The ghosts of "Wall Street," "the bankers," "the moneyed interests" were brought upon the political stage to defeat the League. But there were other ghosts too. We were told that if we participated with other nations we would be giving up our independence, surrendering our sovereignty as a nation, becoming but a mere pawn on a vast chessboard to be blown hither and thither by any strolling gust of wind. Despite the efforts to expose the untruth and fallacy of all these assertions they gained ground rapidly and were responsible in large measure for the refusal of this nation to enter the League.

In his book dealing with the life of Mr. Frick, the banker, Col. George Harvey, one time ambassador to England, reveals some of the truth. He exposes facts that indicate that it was the power and influence of money that defeated the League.

It seems that Mr. Frick, upon request, provided large sums to be used for propaganda purposes in order to defeat our entrance into the League. Mr. Frick had become convinced that the best interests of our country dictated that we stay out of the League but the truth should be brought home to the people, that in fact it was moneyed interests who backed the campaign against the League and that the charge to the contrary was without foundation. How often are the people misled by unsupportable charges of this nature, misled into a prejudice against a thing merely upon the assertion that certain interests are in favor of it.

Albert D. Lasker, former chairman of the Shipping Board and who contributed $25,000 to the campaign chest of the Republican party, testified before the Walsh investigating committee last week that he quit his own business to serve as chairman and director of a voluntary organization which had for its purpose the defeat of the League of Nations. Mr. Lasker gave his attention to the printed warfare or propaganda work against the League and his organization seems to have been well armed with financial strength.

We, therefore, find that Wisconsin's self-styled progressives were in fact doing a tandem with Wall Street bankers. We find Senator Blaine hand in hand with Mr. Frick and Mr. Lasker. We find him at the same time denouncing the opposition as backed by the bankers. Nor could we find evidence of the expenditure of Frick's funds and the excellence of Mr. Lasker's propaganda bureau because at the start Wisconsin's representatives were in favor of the League and, due perhaps in large measure to the propaganda made possible by Frick's money, Wisconsin's representatives became convinced of the dangers of our entrance into the compact.

It is not a good thing that the peoples of the world should be convinced that wars cannot be averted. They should not be expecting wars. Such an expectation and such a conviction is going half way to the contest. It undermines the morale, people become of the opinion that they are helpless driftwood in a torrent. On the other hand were the League of Nations a truly completed contract, a public confidence would spread that war had been completely and finally abolished, that every misunderstanding would somehow be settled peacefully.

The public is too quick to forget. War looks a long ways off. Perhaps it will not come until after our time so what's the use of bothering about it? But the public should be made to remember. Its mind should be taken back to the days of battle, to "the blood, the mud, the lice, the stench, the gaping wounds, the lingering pain, and the ghastly mental torture" which in reality is war.

The League of Nations held out the only sensible plan proposed to avoid and end "the hideous and bloody nightmare."

But Wisconsin's representatives in partnership with the moneyed interests were too much for it.

LOOKING AHEAD

From a recent issue of the London Daily Mail we glean these items:

"The air fire squad flew from its headquarters in Hyde park and poured down anti-fire from its chemical extinguishers. Little damage was done."

Registered readers of the Daily Mail will shortly be offered a special service in connection with their televisions which will be modified to transmit seaside scenes, sounds and ozone," making it possible to get the benefits of the seashore right at home in the city.

At a high-speed college the students are found devoting their waking hours to sports and their sleep to their studies. "What used to be a term's work is now a matter of a single night. While students sleep, a silent battery of memory impressions is storing the brain cells with knowledge."

Scotland Yard detectives are said to be investigating the death of a man murdered by suggestion.

There is announcement of telephone tolls from London to New York being reduced to 35 cents for two minutes.

Twenty-two alleged air bandits are to be tried for a series of bank robberies.

A German woman is accused of shooting her husband at Tiflis "by a beam fired from some place unknown."

A big crowd gathers at Trafalgar Square in London to watch a cricket match at Sidney, Australia.

An aviator succeeds in circling the world in 24 hours, the time remaining noon throughout his flight.

This particular newspaper edition, it should be added, is a journalistic flight of imagination, dated ahead to Jan. 1, 2000. Some people now living will save copies of that issue and check up when the time comes.

The reportorial prophets may not be far wrong. Probably they have erred mainly from understatement, lacking power to vision "the wonder that shall be" two generations from now.

SAVING THE NATIONAL PARK

The New York Times sounds a clarion call to the nation to save the Yosemite. According to the Times, the Yosemite, one of America's finest national parks, is in danger. Steadily and ruthlessly the California lumber companies have been pushing forward their work of ghastly destruction, transforming splendid stands of gigantic sugar pines into stricken areas of desolation which resemble the shell-torn battlefronts of France. Until a dozen years ago the line of desolation had not entered the present boundaries of the park; today it is within the park area, and threatening each year to penetrate more deeply.

The trouble lies in the fact that within a number of national park areas are tracts of patented lands privately owned, which the federal government failed to acquire when the parks were created. Title to these lands rests with the present owners, who may lawfully do with them as they wish. The Park service has no right to interfere with the activities of the private owners; it cannot prevent the lands from being cut over or otherwise made obnoxious to the park visitors. Originally there were 60,000 acres of privately owned land in Yosemite park; by a cutting-out process this has been reduced to 11,000 acres. But to eliminate these 49,000 acres, hundreds of acres of finest timberlands belong in the park, have been sacrificed, and a plan still in abeyance would sacrifice still other huge tracts.

The plan must ultimately go into effect unless the privately owned lands are acquired, privately or federally, as an integral part of the park. To this end the only solution seems to be a "Save-the-Yosemite movement, which The Times has well launched. Unless a nation-wide protest is made against further sacrifice of park lands, immediate and insistent protest, it will be too late. The Yosemite must be saved!

There is a famine of firecrackers in Pacific Coast this fall.

THIRD ROUND IN THE COLIC OBSEQUIES

It is surprising how respectful and orderly the people have been during these last sad rites. I had anticipated some disturbance or rude interruptions here and there—this has always happened before when I have consigned outworn popular myths to oblivion. In the case of "colic," we are still struggling to gain a position where we can chuck the remains into the pit and be done with it, though from the temper of the crowd we fear it is going to take a long while yet to finish the funeral. I was all set for the furious reaction I felt sure the colic cortege would provoke. Maybe it will come later.

At the end of the last round I had just landed heavily on grandma's wind and left her crumpled on the mat, with the referee bawling for an attendant to hurry off and find a computing machine, so he could count—Chicago rules. What took the breath away from poor grandma was the scientific assertion that distension of a portion of the alimentary tube by gas or air does not cause pain or distress. If that is true and let's hear from any physician, physiologist or other scientific authority who doubts it is true—why, the very spirit and life of the colic idea is done for, isn't it?

Since you seem lost in silence, I'll say certainly, yes.

My motive in meeting grandma in combat about this is not a hidden one. I hope to save a million bimboes from wrong treatment, a few thousand from being misunderstood, and maybe a hundred from neglect when they really have something serious the matter inside.

While we are waiting for the computing machine to arrive, so the referee can record the elapsed time of grandma's unavoidable absence, let me assure in-dignant young mothers and their well-meaning but often unreliable advisers, that a regular bimbo naturally grows red in the face, screws up his eyes, scowls or frowns, grows hard in the belly and draws up his legs when he cries. No matter what he is crying for. Please don't let any busybody tell you that these natural expressions mean "colic." And for the baby's sake, I beg of you, don't think of giving any treatment for "gas" or "indigestion" unless the doctor directs it.

In a series of 27 cases of alleged "colic" in infants, as diagnosed by novice mothers, neighbors, and little tin doctors, the actual cause of the trouble was found to be hunger in nine cases, excessive and irritating clothing in five cases, annoyance by glaring light and noise in four cases, itching or smarting skin, rashes, in four cases, third in two cases, scurvy in two cases (the infants had never had any fresh fruit juice), and in one case sheer fatigue (the baby was seldom undressed and put to bed before 8 or 9 o'clock at night, and sometimes was kept up as late as 10 at night).

Run through the list and you will recognize the old canard. I said the other day—the better babies are cared for the less occasion will there be to accuse them of colic.

Once more I cannot resist the impulse to say that our present system of education, in which no provision is made to instruct future mothers about the care of infants, is a stupendous farce, if education means developing children into good citizens capable of taking care of themselves.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

All Over a Can of Peas

If a can of peas is opened and left standing overnight will they be poisonous if eaten the next day? I maintain that if the peas are good when canned, they will be perfectly fit to eat even after standing in the can 24 hours after the can is opened. My friends say they have been told for years . . . (F. D. C.)

Answer—And your friends are correct—they have been told some nonsense. However, you can clinch your argument and silence Ben Told by just stating the facts. The promise you will be perfectly safe. If it was almost anything else than peas I would gladly come and eat 'em for you. But I'd as soon eat a pear, fresh or canned, as partake of black raspberries, and that is a test I'll never make for anybody. Canning concerns of no particular standing still print some such advice on the label of their questionable product, but the better establishments have long since discarded that trick.

Carbolic Acid Is Bad Medicine
What effect has a weak solution of carbolic acid on the eyes? (H. N.)

Answer—It would be unsafe to apply such a dangerous poison to the eyes. In fact, I believe carbolic acid should never be used as an antiseptic or disinfectant, because of its poisonous nature. If you must use an antiseptic in the eyes, use boric acid solution, or a solution of borax dissolved in a pint of boiling water. Let it cool and if any sediment settles, use the clear upper fluid, as drops or for bathing the eyes.

Iron Dust
Operating a machine having cast iron wheel I breathe considerable of the dust thrown off by the machine. Is this harmful to health? (G. K. T.)

Answer—In time it will produce a chronic fibrous lung disease. There are various ways to protect a worker from such dust—water bath, exhaust ventilating installations, masks.

No Chance
Is it so that women will get over the change of life more quickly if they take X-ray treatments? (C. R. G.)

Answer—No. The change of life, so called, is not an ailment nor a crisis to be "got over." It is a normal cessation of menstruation. That's all. (Copyright John F. Dille company.)

PEOPLE WITHOUT LIBRARY SERVICE

Washington, D. C. — More than fifty million people, 44 per cent of the population of continental United States and Canada as shown by the last census, are without access to local or county public library service, according to a survey made by the American Library Association.

The exact figures are 45,009,897 for the United States and 5,399,589 for Canada, a total of 50,409,586. They are the result of an actual count by States and Provinces of the population of the cities, counties, and other governmental units that have and do not have public library service.

Even more surprising is the fact that there are two cities in the United States and two in Canada of more than 25,000 population that do not have public libraries. They are Altoona, Pennsylvania, 63,831; Austin, Texas, 34,876; Quebec, 95,193; and Verdun — also in the Province of Quebec — 25,001.

There are also 47 cities in the United States and 8 in Canada in the population group of from 10,000 to 25,000 that are without public libraries. In the 5000 to 10,000 population group, the count of urban communities — those of 2500 population and over — that are without public libraries is 558 in the United States and 78 in Canada, a total of 636.

For the larger communities there are reasons for this, or at least extenuating circumstances," says the report. "Quebec has a provincial legislative library and also the library of the Institut Canadien de Quebec, a French-Canadian men's club of a literary and social nature. According to its rules members are allowed to use the library; in practice it is open to the general public, the greater proportion of borrowers being children. Austin has a university library and a state library. Altoona had a Mechanics' Institute library, now turned over to the schools. Public library service is not necessary but is retarded by the fact that these larger institutions serve an influential group. Many more of the smaller cities have college or normal school libraries. Others are suburbs of large cities, so that those who most want books can pay for non-resident use of the large library. The urban communities unserved may be said to form only a small part of the total to present special and individual difficulties. Moreover, many of them are small enough to need county rather than local service.

THE PROBLEM IS WIDESPREAD

These people who are without public library service live in every State except Massachusetts and Rhode Island and in every Canadian Province, says the American Library Association. The New England States other than two mentioned have a comparatively small number. The surprising thing is the large count in States like New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, and Illinois, which have many large libraries. The greatest number is in Pennsylvania, 3,500,000, reported by the State Library; the highest per cent of the total population is 85, in Arkansas. Outside of New England, the smallest number is 13,862, in Wyoming; the smallest per cent is 3, in California.

The Canadian Provinces show a wide variation, it is stated. Library service is quite undeveloped in the Maritime Provinces. In Quebec, complications of languages, of church, of two school systems, affect the library situation. Many of the people and communities counted as without public library service have parish or church institution libraries, yet these cannot be counted as public libraries. Ontario has taken the lead in library development, and the newer western Provinces have libraries in all the larger communities. All but the Maritime Provinces have vast stretches of undeveloped territory to the north, not settled enough for public library service of any sort. The Northwestern territories of Keewatin and Mackenzie have no libraries, nor are they ready for them. The Yukon has three small libraries.

Of the total of more than fifty million people in the United States and Canada who are not served by public libraries, only 7 per cent live in cities and towns of over 2500 population — 2,917,606 in this country and 497,812 in our neighbor to the north.

Thus the problem is essentially rural, for the 93 per cent live in the open country or in villages of less than 2500 population. The large number of rural people without access to public libraries is a little over 47,000,000, or 53 per cent of the entire rural population — approximately 42,000,000 or 52 per cent in the United States and 5,000,000 or 93 per cent in Canada.

COUNTIES WITHOUT PUBLIC LIBRARIES

There are 1135 whole counties in the United States, out of 3065, without any public libraries within their borders. Five of these counties are in Pennsylvania, and the others are in every State south and west of Pennsylvania, except Iowa. Texas has the greatest number, 215, and Georgia is next with 73. Virginia has 68 counties without a public library, Tennessee 67, Kentucky 65, Missouri 64, and Mississippi 59. Indiana has but one county, Maryland and Utah have two, and Oregon has three.

Answering the question whether these rural people need books any less than city people, the Library Association says:

"These rural folks are largely of native American stock — aside from the large negro element in the South — of the same blood which has built up and freshened the cities. Those of the older generation were probably educated in the little red school houses, but many of the younger have traveled by bus to the consolidated school and taken the high school course. Others also have had the short course at the state agricultural college or attended movable schools of agriculture. College graduates may still be in the minority, but they are to be found in increasing numbers.

"Young and old have had the stimulus of widespread agricultural extension work, one of the outstanding developments of recent years. Perhaps this is only the bright side of the story. There are undoubtedly many remote districts, and isolated individuals, out of the march of progress. Rural leaders are alert to the part books play in this forward movement. They want equality of library opportunity, especially for their young people.

"Investigations by rural sociologists have proved that private ownership can not meet the entire book need in the country any more than in the city, valuable as is the influence of the home library. And it is harder to buy books, for a very limited range of selection is offered by the catalogues of the large mail order houses, or by the drug store or so-called book-store in the average trading center."

The American Library Association is tackling this problem of book service to the millions now unserved because its objective is "the best reading for the greatest number, at the least cost." It endorses the statement of the late President Theodore Roosevelt that "after the church and the

See-Sawing On Broadway

By Gilbert Swan

New York—The actor's boarding house remains, year in and year out, an institution as closely allied to a type of Broadway life as shooting galleries, or freak museums of medicine shows.

Nor has the appearance of the boarding house keeper changed much with the years. They are distinct types, seeming to have been modeled as definitely as Cruikshank drawings of Dickens' characters. And the performers who seek harbor in these places also seem patterned to stand the test of passing years without change. To these places, most of which now extend westward toward the river come the "tin horn" acts of the nation; the cheap burlesque wheel world, the down-at-the-heels, the huns and the army of hopeless who never seem to rise above a song-and-dance act with a tent show. Yet, season after season, some of their number appear in the Broadway belt and "move in" for the winter, valiantly making the rounds in search of a better "break."

Here you will find those undisciplined, stout gals of the wife-husband teams, about whom are written most of the stage comedy fiction. Life with them is a series of slap-stick arguments, beginning over the doughnuts and coffee and ending over the prunes and coffee. Nowhere, in or out of the theater, will you find such tenacity and loyalty as exist in these "team marriages." Through fair weather and foul, in and out of adversity they huddle and jangle and rage—but they stick! No one comes into closer touch with adversity. Which may explain everything!

Every small town has seen such a pair—the man and wife, glowering from opposite sides of the stage restaurant table; eating the third-rate food, making rough remarks the while and crying to heaven against fate that finds them there. Yet they go on! The evening performance of the tanktown theater finds them in front of a cheap drug, juggling clubs from which the paint has long since been worn, or ex-tauntant table; eating the third-rate food, making rough remarks the while and crying to heaven against fate that finds them there. This Changing Age

By Matt Schmidt & Son

With due deference to the ladies of the 80's Heaven bless 'em, we today attach the necessary bumpers to our motors cars instead of our persons. However, their method gave them an undesirable air of "bustle." Hearts beat just as true in those days, but we really do believe that style and comfort have improved. Our springtime-furnishings for men keep them in step with the times and at the same time offer substantial quality at a reasonable price.

Young People Give Party, Hold Contest

An Easter bonnet contest was held at the Easter party given by the Young People of First English Lutheran church Monday night at the church. The bonnets were fashioned out of colored crepe and tissue papers and prizes were given to the three members who gave promise of becoming the best milliners. They were Miss Gertrude Schultz, Miss Mabel Kruszusch and Miss Hildegard Gauerke.

Forty members attended the meeting, which was both business and social. Tentative plans were made for presenting a group of short plays the latter part of April. Mrs. Floyd Foor was appointed chairman and members of the committee are Martin Gauerke, Miss Helen Block and Miss Verona Klipstein.

Musical numbers presented were two piano duets by Mrs. Foor and Miss Fern McGregor, "La Zingana" and "Dixie Land." The Divine Law, the second of a series of papers on Christian Education was presented by F. M. Foor. Charles Hueseman and Herbert Mossholder won prizes at games. Members of the social committee for the next meeting are Herminie Mossholder, Howard Stark, Miss Viola Weideman and Miss Beatrice Foth.

E. C. Smith gave a report of the district convention of Odd Fellows, held Saturday at Menasha, at the meeting of Konicmic Order of Odd Fellows Monday night at Odd Fellow hall. Preparations were begun for the picnic to be held in August and regular business was transacted. The third degree was exemplified for a class of local members. If the adverse trumps are divided 3-1 as is very possible, or 4-0 as is possible but not probable. He also will lose two Heart tricks and game unless he can get a Heart discard; so it is evident that such a discard is essential. His plan therefore should be, after winning the first Diamond trick with the Ace, to obtain a Heart discard before leading trumps. To tricks 2 and 3, he should lead the Ace and Jack of Clubs (the Jack so as to mask his Club holding) trumping the good Jack in Dummy. Trick 4, he should lead the King of Diamonds from Dummy, discarding a losing Heart from Closed Hand. After winning with the King of Diamonds, he should lead a trump from Dummy to trick 5. This plan will give him game if the adverse trumps are evenly divided. If they are not evenly divided, it will give him three-odd which is the best that he can hope to do under the conditions.

TOMORROW'S HAND

Spade contract; South Declarer; question: How should the Declarer plan to play the hand? Plan now how you would play the hand if you held it and then compare the decision you reach with the method which will be given in tomorrow's Bridge article.

RAILROAD PAYS $169 TO STATE CONSCIENCE FUND

Madison—(AP)—The "Miscellaneous conscience account" of the state treasury is richer by $169.06. That amount, paid the state by the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad as difference between credits and debits from the Wisconsin Southern Tour, went into the general fund by way of the conscience account.

The railroad company's bill totaling $3,550.94. The state was allowed a credit of $3,750.00 for carrying charges of $25 each paid by 150 passengers. The difference between the debits and credits gave the state the sum of $169.06, which the road paid it for the privilege of hauling the train.

WANT TIME EXTENDED FOR RETURNING MAIL

Correspondence sent to Tampico, Mexico, is often intended for delivery in the petroleum camps many miles away, according to an announcement received at the Appleton Post-Office Monday and the regular return-time limit should either be extended or else omitted altogether. It was pointed out that usually it was not possible to deliver the letters in from three to five days, the usual time for which return is asked.

They're Mine

By Edna Wallace Hopper
Many women in my audience ask whether my teeth are my own. It probably is natural to wonder whether a woman in her sixties has retained her teeth. Mine are my own and I'm careful of them. I have always been as diligent in cleaning my teeth as I have been in caring for my skin. I used to use a dentifrice, a mouth wash and a deodorant to sweeten my breath.

Now I am able to obtain all these necessary guards in a tooth paste, called Quinmet, the five-in-one dentifrice. It has a pleasant, mild taste, is an effective cleanser and polisher, and best of all, contains milk of magnesia, which I formerly had to use separately as a mouth wash. This combats the ever present acids, which are destructive to enamel.

Experts collaborated to produce Quinmet. Now you can get it at your local toilet counter. The price is 50 cent for a large tube.

Fair-y Store-y No. 2

Mr. and Mrs. John Norm—better known as Jack and Dotty—have not been quarreling. In spite of, or perhaps because of, their eight short years of happy marriage, Jack believes that politeness begins at home. This is his morning leave-taking from Dotty. He had his goodbye kiss, of course—but before the door was opened.

Dotty has told Jack that last week when she was at the Fair Store buying that sixteen seventy-five dress he likes so much and the twenty-nine fifty spring coat that is so becoming, she saw the "very prettiest, daintiest, most charming house-dresses I've ever laid my eyes on!"

She said that she is going to the Fair Store to-day to get at least three of them, together with some lovely wash dresses she has seen there for four-year-old Betty. And, oh, yes! six-year-old Johnny has finally worn through those long-wearing Fair Store stockings, so she'll have to lay in a new supply of them for him.

Pasteurization-- A Safeguard for Public Health!

PASTEURIZATION is a form of Health Insurance, just as the protection of the water supply of a city or any other similar public health measure.

Dr. H. N. Bundesen, Commission of Health of Chicago, says: "Since the institution of an order in 1916, that all milk be pasteurized, there has not been a single case of contagion traced to the milk supply, a record that speaks volumes for the efficiency of Pasteurization as a Public Measure."

MARYE and MOM Their Letters

Darling Mom: Your letter came in the early morning and I brought it in to me and woke me up to read it to him. He likes to hear from you, but I'm glad he doesn't see all your letters. He was upset about his mother. Of course, she's been failing for years but it seems to worry him more now that he isn't at home with her. He said he'd like me to go home soon and see if there is anything we can do for her. I think he's disturbed about Florence too. Maybe I will come out in a month or two. I'm getting along fine with my driving lessons. Billy's a peach. Never gets me excited. Of course he can't give me much time as he is not really an instructor and has to give some attention to his prospects, you know. I have to laugh when I think of your worry over him! He's just a nice boy, Mom, and that love-making skit for the benefit of the cop was only fun to him. We have wonderful times and I'm darned glad to live in an age when men and women can be just two persons together and be able to forget sex if they want to. It would take a great deal more than a little thing like that to make a man think a woman was loose these days. If the world keeps on moving the way it has since you were a girl, Mom, I'd like to live another hundred years. With glands and everything we'd be all young, and just think of not having to worry at all about what the neighbors would say! And it would be so refreshing to let yourself be natural and not be afraid of being misunderstood. The present generation has certainly chopped up a lot to blaze a macadam walk toward that pleasant goal. Not that any of us are much afraid of being misunderstood by any one of our own crowd. 'Tisn't that. But we do get tired of the criticism of the older folks. We'd turn around and give you a hand if you'd only let us; and then you'd find out how thrilling it is to be free, sane and modern in our own little world. So relieve your mind about Billy, Mom. I like him and I'm sure he likes me because we have good times together. Monday he's going to take a half a day and give me the experience of a long drive. I don't think I'll have any casualties to life, limb or conventions to report. With dearest love MARYE.

Eat Scientifically; Exercise Regularly

This is one of the neck exercises Marjorie Dork describes in the accompanying article.

BY MARJORIE DORK Health and Beauty Expert For NEA Service

No matter what particular problem is yours in reducing your body, you must watch your neck and face. It is well to remember just what dieting does. While you are not eating fattening food the body draws on the fat you stored away when you were overeating. This fat is needed for metabolism, which is the technical name for the process of rebuilding. When your excess fat has been absorbed, you cannot help but be thin and limber again. But remember the flabby skin must be re-absorbed also. It had to stretch to accommodate your heavy intake of food, and now it must shrink so as to fit your slimmer frame. This is accomplished by vigorous exercise. You must also exercise your neck and chin so that the same thing may occur there. So let me outline a few neck exercises that no reducing woman should neglect:

Lie crosswise on the bed so that your shoulders are supported by the edge of the mattress but your head is over the edge. Then drop your head back until it will go no farther. Then bring it up and forward until your chin rests on your throat. If you prefer, you can do this sitting up in a chair, dropping your head as far back and then as far forward as you can. Keep the throat muscles tense and feel a good strong pull on the muscles of your throat. Do this 20 times slowly.

In this same position with your head hanging over the edge of the bed, open your mouth as wide as you can and go through the motions of silent chewing. When you feel the stretch and pull on the muscles of your chin you will realize that you can wear down a double chin in this way.

Then sitting comfortably with your back straight and your shoulders easy, bend the head as far as you can to the left, and then to the right. This is excellent for the contour of the throat and will help also to keep the flesh firm on the neck and chest. Here is another:

Lie flat on the floor with the face down and the hands at the sides. Then raise the head, chest and legs from the floor, bowing the body backward until only the ribs and abdomen are resting on the floor. Then press the head back on the spine as far as it will go. Relax, and repeat 10 times. Any woman who has had her face

WORK NOW HAS REACHED PLACE IN SOCIAL WORLD

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON THE change of status in thirty years, concerning the girl who "works," is almost beyond belief.

The young woman who now steps of a normal school, business college, or university, fired by an ambition to earn money, deserves credit, but not the credit that went to those girls a generation or two ago who faced criticism and almost ostracism if they chose to be financially independent.

We wonder what a girl would think, now, who is preparing herself for teaching, if confronted by a certain paragraph in a small book of "suggestions" for teachers used by certain normal schools in 1900. This little book admonished its readers thus: "A teacher must remember that she has no social position."

I wonder what would happen to the author of such a ridiculous sentiment now.

That attitude, however, was typical at the time of almost any career a woman chose to follow outside of the home. There were exceptions, such as law or medicine, but they were too occasional to count. Even the arts ceased to be honored by the smiles of the socially elect if they became professional and earned money. A girl could dabble in painting or decorating but the instant she took money, down she went, ker-flop, into the social discard. Music was a little different, but it, too, had its own ethics and drew a social deadline.

When we begin to think that the new scheme of things is wrong, we should hark back to the dark ages of 1900 and inhale a whiff of the staid dungeon air of prejudice.

The daughter of an American Ambassador, one of the richest men in the country, is teaching in a girl's school in New Jersey. Mrs. Lindbergh continues teaching chemistry in a high school because she loves it. They say it is no longer the land of the free. I'd like to know if it isn't.

STIFF MOIRES

Stiff moires, in dark shades, fashion some of the smartest spring frocks. Stiff bows or flounces emphasize the material's character.

lifted should never attempt massage at home, but all other women can increase their circulation and help their facial contours while dieting by a light facial massage.

Your dieting and exercises should improve your complexion, as well as your figure. By eliminating starches and fats and adding fruits and raw vegetables, you should find that blemishes of all sorts have disappeared.

And remember this! Your fat will come back of you do not eat scientifically and exercise regularly. That is the price all fat people must pay.

It is better to lose a pound a week for 52 weeks and keep it off than it is to lose 10 or 50 pounds in two or three months and then put it all back on as quickly. Good luck!

MORE GOODIES THEN!

But now that hips n' curves are coming back - it will soon be the feminine aim to be "FAIR - FAT - AND FORTY!"

HINDU BRIDE DIFFERS NOT FROM SISTERS

Modern woman's quest for new experiences, no matter what the break with her accustomed groove of living, is well symbolized in the marriage of Miss Nancy Miller of Seattle to the Maharajah of Indore. Before her marriage in a jungle clearing, the Occidental bride had to be formally initiated into Hinduism and was initiated according to the Hindu custom which would be weird and fantastic and almost absurd to any Occidental. A girl of the past generation would have shuddered at such a radical departure from custom. Today's girl only means that there aren't more Maharajahs to go around.

THE TINYMITES

By Hal Cochran

THE friendly baker said, "Somehow you look in like a baker now." And Cloway said, "Oh, thank you! I am glad to look that way." This apron and this little cap make me a quite important chap. And now please let me bake a cake. I'll do just as you say. They found an oven near at hand. The baker said, "This will be grand. And here's a pin that you can use to do your baking in. I'll promise you it will be fun and when the cake you bake is done I'll let you eat a piece of it." Cloway said, "This made Cloway grin. Then Scouty said, 'We'll help him work and not let one of us will sink but what's it going to bake with? There is nothing, I can see.' The baker laughed and said, 'Don't fret! All things we need we'll shortly get. I'll send you all on errands. You'll be busy as can be. Now, first of all, it seems that our real need is two big sacks of flour.' (The Times go on another errand in the next story.)

This cake is going to be real big, so we will need a lot. Just climb that nearby hill that's steep. You'll find the sacks we sound asleep, but if you wake them they will come along, as like is not. The thought gave all the bunch a thrill and all of them raced up the hill. I don't see any sacks of flour," said Cloway, in despair. "Oh, you are blind," we Carry cried. "Perhaps you think they're trying to hide. If you will look behind that tree, you'll find that they are there." And, sure enough, the merry crowd saw two huge sacks, both snoring loud. Said Scouty, "When we wake them, I hope they don't make a fuss." And then he walked right up and said, "Hi, open up your eyes real wide. I'll use wake up, both you sleepers, and come along with us. HIGH SCHOOL LIBRARY HAS GROWN RAPIDLY SINCE START IN 1921

More Than 7,000 Books Now Available for Students and Teachers

The aim of Appleton high school library is to afford an adequate place for both students and teachers to do reference work and supplementary reading, to lead pupils to the treasures of the ages, to inculcate in pupils an appreciation of fine literature and good current magazines, as out lined by Miss Ruth Mielke, librarian and Miss Sylvia Solinger, senior at Lawrence college who is doing observation work in the high school library.

From a meager collection of books the library has steadily grown until it now has 7,000 books. Before 1921 each department had its classrooms, its own set of departmental books and in the rear of the assembly a general collection was placed.

FIT UP CLASSROOM
The establishment of a library in 1921 resulted after the state department of education required that all state aided schools should employ one teacher librarian. One of the classrooms in a central position on the main floor was fitted with shelves by the manual training department and the books already in possession of the high school were classified roughly at first and more carefully later.

An embryo library had been established under the direction of Miss Ruth Mielke by the time the students returned in the fall.

The largest share of library books are reference volumes to supplement the textbooks used in the various classes. There are books on art, mythology, government, languages, science, literature, geography, biography, history, general reference books and in addition the library subscribes for 50 magazines and three newspapers.

The library accommodates 56 pupils during one period, hence, serving 216 students in one day besides those who make use of the library after school and between periods. At least 77 books on the average are taken home by the students each day.

In order to give the student the best kind of service and to give the student a try at library work, the librarian has a staff of four senior helpers, one of whom is in attendance each period of the day. They take part in the routine work, such as checking the returned books and replacing them on the shelf.

IS WELL EQUIPPED

The library is equipped with four large tables for the use of the students studying in the library and one small table on which is placed the Readers Guide. The class of 1927 donated two magazine racks which are used for displaying magazines and in filing the recent back issues. A combination bulletin board and book display helps to advertise new books. Visual material of various nature is displayed daily on the bulletin board, such as artistically mounted reproductions of paintings, covers of the latest books and clever material.

Books are continually displayed on the book rack so that the students may browse among the worthwhile literature and become acquainted with the best authors. A vertical file contains pamphlets, notices and articles clipped from discarded current periodicals and newspapers.

Each year during the first semester a course in the study of the library is given to the sophomores. The purpose of the course is to teach students the use of books and the school and public library. The students are not only taught the use of the library but also the use of the library science class of Lawrence college. Each member of the class comes to observe the methods used in a library as well as to take some part in the routine work under the supervision of the librarian. The course during the spring session of school.

A GENERAL LABORATORY

The classification of books, the cataloging and the use of the Readers Guide are the fundamental lessons covered by the course. The students are taught the pointed part of the book and the use of special reference books such as the World Almanac. The library is a general laboratory not only for the students of the high school but also for members of the library science class of Lawrence college. Each member of the class comes to observe the methods used in a library as well as to take some part in the routine work under the supervision of the librarian. The course during the spring session of school.

The library could be of much greater service if it were not hampered by lack of adequate room, according to Miss Mielke. The equipment is too congested at present. The minimum seating capacity should be 10 percent of the enrollment of the high school. This means that the library should have room for at least 80 students instead of the present 56 students.

One-third of the shelf room should be left free from the addition of new books, but under the crowded conditions at Appleton high school library this is not possible. A larger room is needed to facilitate the work of the librarian and her helpers in order to serve the students and faculty in the most efficient and most convenient manner.

HEALTH BOARD FINDS RABIES ON INCREASE

Wisconsin, With Many Other States, Undergoing Much Trouble

Madison—(AP)—Wisconsin, like many of its neighboring states, is undergoing considerable rabies trouble. The state board of health revealed Monday. The state department of agriculture had previously given the same indication, saying that many dogs and other animals were being reported to the department as being affected with or having died of rabies.

The health board said more than the usual number of specimens for rabies examinations were being received by the state laboratory of hygiene.

A statement issued by the board for the public guidance in connection with future dealings with the disease says: "The state law permits local officials to adopt and enforce ordinances for muzzling or confining dogs, and these ordinances should continue at least 90 days. It is the duty of a rabid animal on a scratch or in a wound that transmits rabies."

"After being bitten, a person develops the disease in 30 to 60 days. A bite should immediately be cauterized by a physician and if his judgment dictates, the Pasteur treatment, now accessible to every physician, should be administered."

"Whenever an animal appears to undergo changes in disposition or voice or shows peculiar habits it should be tied up for at least three weeks. If the animal is showing symptoms of the disease it will die within a few days. Proof that the animal had rabies can be had by sending its head packed in ice, to the state laboratory of hygiene."

Numerous communities and towns public speaking and Adam Atchison, coach, were judges. The five winners will take part in the Hoess Oratorical contest which will be held at 8 o'clock Thursday, April 12, at Appleton high school.

This contest is sponsored by the class of 1916 of which William B. Hoess, who lost his life during the World War, Dr. Carl Neuhoff is president of the class of 1916.

The winner of the Hoess contest will represent Appleton high school in the Fox River Valley oratorical contest, Friday, April 27, at East Green Bay high school.

ships in the state have recently passed muzzling ordinances. The only way of controlling the disease is by such ordinances, properly enforced, for by confining the animals, long enough without their biting others, the disease will disappear.

"The public should not depend for the control of rabies wholly upon the muzzling of dogs by the use of a vaccine. While it may protect dogs from some strains of rabies virus, it furnishes little protection against other strains of the infection. Muzzling of all dogs for a period of three to six months is the safest method of controlling the spread of rabies."

Hot, nourishing, delicious —and so easily made!

Here's a wonderful drink for children!

ARE you one of the thousands of mothers who have been searching for a mealtime drink your children will like—and that is good for them? Try Instant Postum made with milk! Your children will love it!

For here is a "grown-up" drink—a drink "like Daddy's"—the kind of drink your children are always teasing you to give them. It is delicious, appetizing, with a flavor children immediately like.

And it's nourishing—not harmful. A drink that combines the wholesomeness of whole wheat and bran with the body-building nourishment of milk.

Just put a teaspoonful of Instant Postum in a cup, pour in hot (not boiled) milk, stir, add sugar to taste—this wholesome drink is ready! A drink that children like—even children who do not like milk alone. And it eliminates the danger of caffeine, the beverage drug that yearly takes its toll of health and happiness. There is not the trace of a drug in Postum!

Your grocer has Instant Postum. Order it today—serve it to your children tomorrow! And try it yourself—made with either milk or boiling water. Better still, make Postum your mealtime drink for thirty days. Then judge its benefits to your health! You'll never want to go back to meal-time doses of caffeine!

STUDENTS TAKE PART IN CAMPAIGN TO GET ADDITION TO SCHOOL

Speakers to Give Short Talks at Every Meeting Between Now and April 3 Election

Kaukauna—A campaign to explain to every voter in the city of Kaukauna why a new high school auditorium and gymnasium is necessary has been started by the students and the faculty. Speakers from the school will give short talks in favor of bonding the city for the necessary $60,000 at all principal meetings in the city between now and election day, April 3.

On Tuesday morning when J. F. Cavanaugh, city superintendent of schools, was asked why the city should complete the high school building, he said, "On April 3 the voters of this city will be asked to float a bond issue for the completion of the high school building. How the citizens respond to this question is of the utmost importance to the students of the high school and to the people of Kaukauna."

"In 1922, when the people of Kaukauna voted to erect a high school building, it was understood that the building would be complete but due to lack of funds it was left unfinished. Consequently we have a school building which is only 70 percent efficient. The rooms were planned in connection with an auditorium and gymnasium. Because of the increase in the enrollment, class rooms are being used for assembly rooms. This condition has steadily grown worse during the last five years."

"The completed high school building will have an auditorium for the student assembly. Besides, the auditorium will be used by the community for the Mid-winter fair as well as public lectures and entertainers. It will be large enough to seat conveniently all those who wish to attend the commencement exercises of both public and parochial schools."

"With a gymnasium, a course in physical education will be given. At present, it is not possible to conduct such a course although it is a state requirement in education. If the citizens vote for the unit necessary to complete our school, every boy and girl will have an opportunity to develop in health and vigor without which success in life is impossible."

"People in Kaukauna have demonstrated their interest in athletics by attending the basketball games in the old auditorium. For the athletic and other activities of its business men and of parochial school pupils."

"The tax rate for the coming year will practically be the same as this year because the payments made last year and the payments to be made this year will offset the amount asked for to complete the unit."

"We urge the voters of the city to give a verdict in the affirmative on the question of the bond issue. The board of education has given the following reasons why the high school building should be completed this summer: first, it is necessary; second, building material is comparatively low; third, good bonds today are paying a low rate of interest, i. e. money is being put to investment; therefore the city can obtain money to complete the high school building on school bonds at four and a half percent or possibly as low as four percent interest."

"Fourth, the expenditures of $50,000 or $60,000 on the completion of the high school and the $90,000 or $100,000 on St. Mary's parochial school will furnish employment for our surplus labor. Years in which presidential elections are held are dull years for labor. Neenah, New London, Green Bay and other cities will carry on an extensive school building program this summer because they can build cheaper and also furnish employment for their surplus labor. There the board of education believes this summer is the opportune time to build."

EXPECT HAMBRECHT FOR PARENT-TEACHERS MEET

Kaukauna—George P. Hambrecht of the state department of vocational education will probably be the speaker at the Parent-Teacher's association meeting to be held at 7:30 Thursday evening in the high school auditorium. If Mr. Hambrecht is able to reach Kaukauna on that evening he will speak on Present Day Training for Vocations.

Part of the meeting will be used to explain the necessity of building the new high school auditorium and gymnasium and urging the members to help put the bond issue across. A musical program has been arranged by J. J. Haass.

BOWLING MATCHES

Kaukauna—St. Norbert and St. Francis mix in a Knights of Columbus bowling-league match at Hilgenburg's alleys at 7 o'clock Wednesday evening. On this same shift St. Mary clashes with Marquette. At 9 o'clock Notre Dame meets Creighton and Georgetown rolls Holy Cross.

The Post-Crescent's representative at Kaukauna is Gordon Patton. His telephone numbers are 298 J and 10. Business with The Post-Crescent may be transacted through Mr. Patton.

CHEMIST TO ADDRESS PAPER MAKING CLASS

Kaukauna—Evening school classes at Kaukauna Vocational school closed on Friday of last week for the present term. They will be opened again in October.

The paper making class will continue to meet, however, until the full course of ten lessons has been completed. Instead of meeting at the high school building, the class rooms in the vocational school will be used. A. Gardner, chemist for the Combined Locks Paper Co., will speak on "The Beater Room" at the weekly lecture to be held at 7 o'clock Tuesday evening.

PIGEON RACERS PLAN SUMMER ACTIVITIES

Season Will End With 1,000 Mile Race from Denver to Kaukauna

Kaukauna—The complete racing schedule of the Kaukauna Pigeon club was announced at a meeting of the organization held Monday evening in the council chambers of the municipal building. Racing will start on April 8 and will close with the banner event of the year, the 1,000 mile race from Denver on July 1. The first time trial will be held on the flight from Wisconsin Rapids on April 23. There will be three trial races previous to this one. A total of 13 races will be flown by members this year who start with the first one and continue through the season. Special races will be flown from Britt, Ia., (300 miles), St. Paul, Neb., (600 miles) and Denver, Colo., (1,000 miles).

Rules and regulations from the American Pigeon Racers Union have been received and are being distributed among the local members. The Kaukauna club joined this organization earlier in the year.

The first race will be from Hortonville on April 8. It will be a trial flight and no timers will be used. Members will meet at the north side of the Chicago and Northwestern railroad station on Friday evening, April 6 to crate their birds which will be shipped the following day.

The race schedule for the spring season follows: April 8, Hortonville; April 15, New London; April 22, Watpaca; April 29, 80 miles and first timing station, Wisconsin Rapids; May 6, 116 miles, Neillsville; May 13, 150 miles, Merrillan; May 20, 200 miles, Winona, Minn.; May 27, 300 miles, Britt, Ia.; June 3, 400 miles, Storm Lake, Ia.; June 10, 500 miles special, Britt, Ia.; June 17, 500 miles, Norfolk, Neb.; June 24, 600 miles, St. Paul, Neb.; and July 1, 1,000 miles, Denver, Colo.

K. OF C. BOWLERS LOSE AT OSHKOSH

Only Two Teams Reach 1,000 Pin Mark and Defeat Proves Big Surprise

Kaukauna—Local Knights of Columbus bowlers were unable to place in the doubles and singles events at Oshkosh Sunday evening. A total of 107 pins were accumulated by P. A. Smith and H. Minkebege for the best double count with Amay Bayorgeon and Lester Smith next with 1073. These were the only two teams to reach the 1,000 mark. H. Minkebege did the best in the singles with a count of 576 and Amay Bayorgeon was second with 537 while P. A. Smith counted 532.

Failure to place in these two events surprised the Kaukauna bowlers who expected to see a few leaders upset after St. Norbert went into second place in the five man team event.

Doubles scores were as follows: P. A. Smith and H. Minkebege, 1077; P. Spindler and L. Gerend, 838; L. Lamers and C. S. Mulholland, 576; E. Brewster and H. Heskaker, 569; Amay Bayorgeon and Lester Smith, 1073; C. Brandt and R. Smith, 996; Singles, P. Smith, 532; H. Minkebege, 576; Frank Spindler, 431; L. Gerend, 477; Amay Bayorgeon, 537; Lester Smith, 525; Clifford Brandt, 483; Richard Smith, 435; Ethan Brewster, 524; H. Heskaker, 524; B. Lamers, 536 and G. S. Mulholland, 425.

Social Items

Kaukauna—The Rev. Exler of the Green Bay State Reformatory will be the speaker at the regular semi-monthly meeting of the Lady Knights of Columbus to be held at 2:30 Thursday afternoon in the K. of C. club rooms on Wisconsin-ave. He will speak on "The Youth of Today." Instrumental selections will be presented by Miss Margaret Fargo and Jack Licht.

Miss Beatrice Nettekoven will entertain the G. G. G. club at her home on Wednesday evening. Games will be played.

KAUKAUNA PERSONALS

Kaukauna—George P. Reidenbach of Green Bay, district postal inspector, called at the Kaukauna postoffice Monday.

Mrs. Fred Wettengel of Appleton spent Monday with Miss Olive Nagan. Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Donovan of Green Bay visited at the August Heintz home on Sunday.

Mrs. H. Minkebege is a patient at St. Elizabeth hospital. Homer Metz of Fond du Lac is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Metz.

Jerome De Brue and Ralph Guthrie of Eau Claire spent the weekend here with relatives and friends. Miss Lois Chambers visited at Oshkosh Sunday.

Miss Ethelyn Armitage of Black Creek was a Kaukauna visitor Sunday.

HOLSTEIN BREEDERS HOLD MONTHLY MEET

Forest Junction Sunday School Class Gets Letter from African Missionary

Forest Junction—A lecture on modern feeding of dairy cattle, illustrated with stereopticon views, was the principal feature of the monthly meeting of the local Holstein-Friesian Breeders' association held in the Woodman hall here Thursday evening. Twenty-three breeders attended. The lecture was given by R. F. Benkert, Oshkosh. Pictures displayed showed modern dairymen's methods, the preparation and use of feed on farms, as well as the production of commercial feeds in the large milling establishments. Statistical information based upon a recent survey was presented, and it was pointed out how the progressive dairyman of today has an investment equal to that of the average businessman in a place of 5,000 population. The speaker also answered questions on feeding placed by members of the audience.

A brief discussion of the benefits of organization followed the lecture, after which the membership committee reported, and six new members were enrolled in the association. A dairy luncheon concluded the session. Sportsmanship as a side line to missionary activity is described in a letter written by the Rev. Ira McBride, who is stationed at an Evangelical mission among the Fambur people in Nigeria, British West Africa. The letter is addressed to a class of adolescent boys of the local Evangelical Sunday-school, inviting the boys to write again, and inquiries when some of them are coming to Africa to see him.

"This would be," he says, "about the right time of the year for you to come. The tall grass that grows up to about ten feet all over the country, is now dry and being burned so that hunting will soon be good. We don't make a business of hunting, but once in a while the old rifle is brought out and tried on a fat antelope buck. We have several kinds here from the big mule-like hartbeest weighing half a ton to the little duikers about the size of a fox dog. The kind we see most of are cob. They are very beautiful red and about the size of a two year old calf and the bucks have fine curving horns. We can get eight of these bucks a year and I guess we get all we're supposed to each year."

There are other animals too but we don't see much of them. The Fambur people, appeared a leopard in the rocks just east of our house last week. They had quite a scrap over who killed it. Monkeys and baboons bark on the hills back of our place every day. There are lions and buffalo and hippo along the river but are not seen often.

The letter, written in response to a Christmas gift from the class mailed last November, was received here Friday and required a little over a month for delivery. It bears a Nigerian stamp, purple in color.

Because of impassable stretches on state highway 57 northwest of here, motor bus service on the Appleton-Waukegan line was discontinued here this week. The coaches have been following a northerly detour not touching the village. A heavy sedan, becoming mired on 57 and blocking the way for a high-powered truck, was given a novel lift by having the truck adjust its bumper to the spare tire on the rear of the sedan and shoving it through the difficult stretches.

Roads otherwise are in a reasonably good condition. County patrolmen have begun operations on their sections, while townships highway district superintendents have been grading the side roads. The surface has been drying rapidly with warm sun, shine and brisk winds. A temperature of 60 was registered here Friday afternoon.

VAN DINTER FUNERAL TO BE HELD THURSDAY

Members of Little Chute Sodality Meet Tuesday Evening

Little Chute—Mrs. John Van Dinter, 38, died Monday afternoon at her home here, after a lingering illness. She is survived by her widower, two daughters, Mrs. Frank De Bruin and Josephine, both of this village and two sons Peter of Milwaukee and Edward of this place. Funeral services will be held Thursday morning at 9 o'clock at St. John church. The Rev. John J. Sprangers will be in charge of the services. Burial will take place in the Catholic cemetery.

Members of the Young Ladies sodality of St. John church will hold their regular monthly meeting Tuesday evening in the church basement. Officers will be elected.

Miss Isabelle Gerrits was a guest of a daughter in Milwaukee Sunday. A daughter was born Thursday to Mr. and Mrs. Albert J. Jaeger. Mrs. John Wydeven is confined to her home because of illness. J. Doerfler of Appleton was a caller here Sunday.

KAUKAUNA IKE WALTONS TO FORM ORGANIZATION

HORSE BITES GIRL FOR PETTING COLT

Little Hilbert Miss Taken to Hospital After Hand Is Lacerated

Special to Post-Crescent Hilbert—Grace, the two year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Minsberger, was bitten by a horse Tuesday afternoon. The child was in the stable with her parents while doing chores and attempted to pet a colt, which angered the mother. The child's hand was severely lacerated. Dr. Dehne was called and rushed the child to St. Elizabeth hospital, Appleton where it was treated. Unless infection sets in, doctors expect the hand to heal rapidly.

Mrs. Math. Schumaker is staying with her daughter Eleanor at the hospital at Appleton.

The Five Hundred club met at the home of Mrs. Anton Seichter Tuesday evening. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Gertrude Weber and Mrs. F. E. Dehne.

The Womens Relief corp held their regular meeting at the school house Thursday evening. The birthday committee that served were Mrs. Edward Voight, Mrs. Arno Schmidt, Mrs. Fred Boeselaeger, Chilli Dexheimer, Mrs. P. E. Dehne, Mrs. E. E. McDowell.

BLOOD PRESSURE 200

Watch your blood pressure! If it's 180 or 200 instead of 120, it's a sign to be careful. High blood pressure cuts years off one's life. Heart palpitation, dizziness and difficulty are symptoms of high blood pressure, the result of our modern abnormal habits of life which put too great a strain upon the liver. The liver becoming sluggish fails to cleanse the blood of the toxic poisons formed in food waste, which then permeate the whole system, affecting heart, blood pressure and blood vessels. The liver needs a little help occasionally. Nothing better for this, as medical men know, than a little ox gall. Ox gall is a remarkable natural stimulant for the human liver, promoting its normal active functioning, so essential to real health. Dioxol tablets are genuine ox gall in dainty and tasteless form, each tablet representing 10 drops of pure ox gall. To be sure of getting the genuine ox gall, be sure of getting Dioxol. They cost less than 2c each at good druggists, and a few soon tell.

Free Test Take this ad to the druggist named below. He will give you a free sample of Dioxol tablets. Try them yourself. See the splendid quick results. One trial of Dioxol and you will want a full package!

Mothers, Do This--

When the children cough, rub Musterole on their throats and chests. No telling how soon the symptoms may develop into croup, or worse. And then's when you're glad you have a jar of Musterole at hand to give prompt relief.

As first aid, Musterole is excellent. Keep a jar ready for instant use. It is the remedy for adults, too. Relieves sore throat, bronchitis, tonsillitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, chilblains, frosted feet and colds of the chest (it may prevent pneumonia).

To Mothers: Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

9 CONVENTIONS PICK MILWAUKEE FOR MEETING

Milwaukee—(AP)—Nine conventions and several conferences and shows will be held in Milwaukee during the last two weeks of March and the month of April, the convention bureau of the association of commerce has announced.

Three fraternal conferences, one of them a national gathering, are planned. The Supreme White Shrine of Jerusalem will meet April 30, May 3. The state lodge of the Degree of Honor will meet April 23-25 and the Order of Aleph Zadik Aleph March 23-25. The Wisconsin Commercial Forestry conference, where problems of reforestation in Wisconsin will be discussed, will be held March 28-29. Other conventions include: The Advertising Commission, a national organization; The Wisconsin of Heating and Piping Contractors, date not set; The Wisconsin Association of School Boards, April 13-14; the Wisconsin State Music Teachers' association April 23-26 and the Wisconsin Federation of Music clubs April 25-28.

Why do so many, many babies of today escape all the little fretful spells and infantile ailments that used to worry mothers through the day, and keep them up half the night?

If you don't know the answer, you haven't discovered pure, harmless Castoria. It is sweet to the taste, and sweet in the little stomach. And its gentle influence seems felt all through the tiny system. Not even a distasteful dose of sassafras oil does so much good.

Fletcher's Castoria is purely vegetable, so you may give it freely, at first sign of colic, or constipation, or diarrhea. Or those many times when you just don't know what is the matter. For real sickness, call the doctor, always. At other times, a few drops of Fletcher's Castoria.

The doctor often tells you to do just that; and always says Fletcher's. Other preparations may be just as pure, just as free from dangerous drugs, but why experiment? Besides, the book on care and feeding of babies that comes with Fletcher's Castoria is worth its weight in gold!

JOHN F. X. MACKHAM, District Attorney of New York County
MARGARET ODELL (THE "CANARY")
CHARLES CLEAVER, a man-about-town
KENNETH SPOTSWOOD, a manufacturer
LOUIS MANNIX, an importer

THE STORY THUS FAR

The jewel case had been opened with a steel chisel after being battered with a poker. This leads Vance to think that the real murderer had not opened it, but someone who was hiding in the closet when the murder was committed. That man, he thinks, was Skeel, whose fingerprints were found in the apartment of the strangled Margaret Odell. Markham ridicules the theory and Vance painstakingly explains his reasons for thinking the crime was not one of robbery, but the work of a highly intelligent man. Markham and Vance discuss Mannix, Spotswoode and Dr. Lindquist.

CHAPTER XXVI

"You're so prejudiced," said Vance. "But let us picture reluctantly on that your picture of Cleaver? The act that he's familiarly called Pop is useful as a starter. You simply couldn't imagine Beethoven being called Shorty, or Bismarck being referred to as Snookums."

"Cleaver has been a politician most of his life—a Tammany Hall regular. Was a ward boss at twenty-five; ran Democratic club of some kind in Brooklyn for a time; was an alderman for two terms, and practiced general law. Was appointed tax commissioner, left politics, and raised a small going stable. Later secured an illegal gambling concession at Saratoga; and operates a pool room in Jersey City. Is what you might call a professional sport. Loves his liquor."

"No marriage?"

"None on the records. But see here; Cleaver's out of it. He was ticketed a Bountoon that night at half past seven."

"Is that, by any chance, the water-light alibi you mentioned a moment ago?"

"In my primitive legal way I considered it as such," Markham resented Vance's question. "The summons handed him at half past eleven; 's so marked and dated. And Bountoon is fifty miles from here—a good two hours' motor ride. Therefore, Cleaver unquestionably left New York about half past nine; and even if he'd ridden directly back, he couldn't have reached here until long after the time the medical examiner declared the girl dead."

"As a matter of routine, I investigated the summons, and even spoke by phone to the officer who issued it. It was genuine enough—I ought to know; had it quashed."

"Did this Bountoon Dogberry know Cleaver by sight?"

"No, but he gave me an accurate description of him. And naturally he got the car's number."

Vance looked at Markham with open scorn.

"My dear Markham—my very dear Markham—can't you see that all this actually proved is that a bulge in traffic Nemesis handed a speed-limit summons to a smooth-faced, middle-aged, stout man who was driving Cleaver's car near Bountoon at half past eleven on the night of the murder? . . . And my word! Isn't that exactly the sort of alibi the old boy could arrange if he intended taking the lady's life at midnight or thereabouts?"

"Come, come," laughed Markham. "That's a bit too far-fetched. You'd give every law-breaker credit for conceiving schemes of the most diabolical kind."

"So I would," admitted Vance pathetically. "And . . . d'ye know?—I (other fancy that's just the kind of homes a law-breaker would concoct, he was planning a murder, and his assumption of your investigators that murderer gives no intelligent thought whatever to his future safety, 's rather touchin', y' know."

Markham grunted.

"Well, you can take it from me, it was Cleaver himself who got that summons."

"I dare say you're right," Vance conceded. "I merely suggested the possibility of deception, don't y' know. The only point I really insist on is that a fascinatin' Miss Odell was killed by a man of subtle and superior mentality."

"And I, in turn," irritably rejoined Markham, "insist that the only man that time who touched her life in any way was Cleaver. And I further insist that not one of them can be regarded as a promising possibility."

"I fear I must contradict you, old man," said Vance serenely. "They're possibilities—and one of them is silly."

Markham glared at him derisively.

"Well, well! So the case is settled! Now, if you'll but indicate which is the silly one, I'll arrest him at once, and return to my other duties."

"You're always in such haste," Vance lamented. "Why leap and run? The wisdom of the world's philosophers is against it. Famine, pestilence, or, as Rufus has it, Fes- tinate tarda est. And the Koran says it quite frankly that haste is of the Devil. Shakespeare was constantly belting speed:

"'Tis times betimes that spurs too fast betimes';

"'Wisely, and slow; they stumble that run fast';

Markham also held similar views. "He smelt out well," said he, "that wily canny." Even God's common people have embodied the idea in numerous proverbs: 'God and quickly seldom meet'; and 'Hasty men never get on.'"

Markham rose with a gesture of impatience.

"Hell! I'm going home before you start a bed-time story," he growled. The ironical aftermath of this re-it she had written a name and address.

"The young lady is Miss Alya La Fosse, and she lives at the Belvedere Hotel."

There was now no doubt as to her smile. "You really shouldn't be so careless with the addresses of your applicants—some poor girl might lose an engagement." And her smile suddenly turned into soft laughter.

"Mademoiselle," replied Vance, with mock seriousness, "in the future I shall be guided by your warning. And with another dignified bow, we went out.

"Good Lord!" he said, as he emerged into Seventh Avenue. "Really, y' know, I should have disguised myself as an impresario, with a gold-headed cane, a derby, and a purple shirt. That young woman is thoroughly convinced that I'm contemplating an intrigue."

He turned into a florist's shop at the corner, and, selecting a dozen American Beauties, addressed them to "Benjamin Browne's Receptionist."

"And now," he said, "let us stroll to the Belvedere, and seek and audience with Alya."

HIS KNOCKOUT

Barthelmess in role of unpopular boxer in "The Patent Leather Kid," now at the Elite.

His black hair was slick and shiny like patent leather so they called him "The Patent Leather Kid."

He was an East Side boxer so unpopular that he always drew big crowds—crowds hoping to see him knocked out, or at least that patent leather hair mussed.

Richard Barthelmess has one of the greatest roles of his screen career in "The Patent Leather Kid." First National's mighty epic of the U. S. tank corps now at the Elite theater following its sensational Broadway run.

"The Patent Leather Kid" is the story of a pugilist who is drafted for the war much against his will, but who emerges with a decoration of bravery and ultimately wins the girl he loves. The story gives Barthelmess every chance for a human, convincing portrayal of a man who is redeemed through suffering and a woman's love.

"That's My Daddy" WITH DENNY OUGHT TO PLEASE EVERYBODY

The poor motion picture critic has been severely criticised by people who have seen his shows and have not agreed. This is especially the case when the critic didn't like a show and the offended person did.

We hope there'll be no such objections to this review. In the first place Reginald Denny is supremely popular here. In the second place the house absolutely howled at "That's My Daddy" which opened at Fischers Appleton theatre last night. And in the third place this reviewer howled just as loud if not louder than everybody else at the funny incidents, clever pantomime and joyous situations which characterized the production.

Denny is better than ever, if possible. His new leading woman, Barbara Kent, is delightfully refreshing and Lillian Rich is sedately beautiful.

Little Jane La Verne is the child marvel of the picture and captivated the hearts of the audience. The others

NEENAH'S DISTRICT CHAMPS LEAVE FOR MADISON CONTESTS

Jorgenson Five Closes Practice For Tourney On University Courts

Favored to Trounce East De-Pere High in Opener on Wednesday Afternoon

Overwhelmed with the good wishes of the Fox river valley as well as those of the entire city of Neenah, Coach Ole Jorgenson's six-footers from Neenah high school, the only Valley representative, left Tuesday morning for Madison and the Wisconsin state high school basketball tournament. Through the team left early a large crowd of townspeople cheered the departure of the Northeastern Wisconsin conference and Menasha district champions who wish them luck to take their third title of the year.

The team had only one light practice in the week and a half since its sensational triumphs in the district meet but every man, including Johnston and Pratt, guards who are in excellent condition, Coach Jorgenson said. After Monday afternoon's final light workout, the coach chose his Madison team, which was the same which played in the district meet, Capt. Haase, Radtke, Gaetner and Thompson, forwards; Schneider, center; and Johnson, Ehlers and Pratt, guards.

WORK OF U. GYM
The team will take a light workout at the University of Wisconsin gymnasium Tuesday afternoon or evening to get better acquainted with the new floor and Wednesday afternoon about 3:15 it will battle East De-Pere in its first game. The Goliathans are favored to beat East and then are a slight favorite over La Crosse. If these games are won, the deciding battle for the Jorgenson five will be the Madison Central game in the semi-finals. The Madison team being the title favorite and an easy favorite over Neenah. However, if the Redmen are playing their best game and using their height to advantage for an overhead passing game they may beat the Centralites and enter the finals.

Coach Jorgenson in his usual quiet manner predicted that his boys will go far in the meet. While not displaying overconfidence for a state title, he let it be known that any team that beat the Goliathans will know it has been in a battle and if it wins it will fully deserve its advancement in the title quest. Ole is hopeful that his boys may enter the finals and is confident they will come through to the semis at least.

New faces and new teams, their presence in many cases marking the victories of schools from small towns over their larger rivals, will be present when the tournament opens.

Sixteen high school basketball teams, victorious in their district contests have completed practice for the meet. The smallest town represented will be Whitehall with a population of 851, while Cuba City with 1,175, is next in size.

Whitehall won in the Eau Claire district tournament in which Eau Claire high, last year's state champions, took only fourth place. Cuba City won the Platteville district title.

Only six of last year's district champions repeated this year.

Teams which retained their title were Wisconsin High of Madison, Madison Central, Ashland, Wausau, Watertown and La Crosse. Teams losing their 1927 first place ranking were Kenosha, New Richmond, Nekeosha, Lena, Platteville, Waupun, Ladysmith, Eau Claire, Menasha and Kewaunee.

Joining the ranks of the titeliners this year were Waukesha, Ocon to, East De-Pere, Neenah, River Falls, Whitehall, Stevens Point, Cuba City, Marshfield and Spooner.

The final standings of the state tournament last year put Eau Claire in first place and Madison Central in second.

The up-state quint won victory in a close game, 18-13, gaining a sufficient margin in the second half to win.

Kenosha, which ended up in third place in the Milwaukee district this year, occupied the same position in last year's state tournament, whipping Wausau, 19-5.

Wausau had piled up a 13 to 1 lead at the end of the third quarter but Kenosha, in a thrilling last-period rally, won the game.

It was a walkaway for Watertown in the play for the consolation championship. The quint routed Menasha by the largest score of the entire tournament, 45 to 13.

Besides the usual number of teams from medium-sized towns in the tournament this year, there will be two from towns whose population is between 2,000 and 3,000. They are River Falls with 2,273 and Spooner with 2,293. Both of them were runners-up in their district tournaments last year.

On the opposite end of the list, Madison Central and Wisconsin high of Madison share the "largest city" post.

HAHN, CONGER SLATED FOR TWO OLYMPIC RACES

New York—(AP)—Lloyd Hahn of the Boston A. C. and Ray Conger of the Illinois A. C., foremost runners of American Olympic middle distance candidates, will be expected to race in both 800-meters and 1,500 meters event at the Amsterdam games.

Head Coach Robertson of the Olympic team has formally notified the runners to train for these distances. While Hahn has been in favor of competing in both events, Conger questions his own ability to race on five successive days. Such will be the case for athletes entered in the 800 and 1,500 meters distance which involve three heats.

Final Olympic tryouts will be held at Boston on July 6 and 7 at which time Hahn and Conger will test out their durability for the two races.

Rochester, N. Y.—Eddie (Kid) Wagner, Philadelphia won from Jos Traben, Kansas City (10).

HOLD STATE VOLLEY MEET AT GREEN BAY

Appleton Y Team to Defend State Title at Tourney, April 21

Appleton Y. M. C. A. volleyball team, 1927 Wisconsin state champion and a leading contender in the state meet for the last three years, probably will defend its state supremacy on April 21 when the state contest is held at the Green Bay association and Columbus club. The Bay Y will play host to volleyballers of the entire state on that day, the closest the meet has been held to Appleton since it was in this city itself three years ago. Last year the Appleton team also took part in the midwest sectional meet and the national tourney, where it was eliminated early by the best teams in the United States.

The tournament will be open to all amateur volleyball aggregations in the state, and enrollment will be limited to 16 teams. Entry blanks may be secured from the volley ball committee of the Green Bay Y. M. C. A. The tournament will be an elimination fray, which means that each team must be defeated twice before being eliminated. Gold medals will be awarded members of the team winning first place, while cups will be given the teams placing first, second and third. With sixteen teams entered, there will be 30 games played on the day of the tourney. Two games will be played each hour at the Columbus club starting at 9 o'clock in the morning and the same schedule will be in force at the Y. M. C. A.

All amateur volley ball teams in the state are invited to send applications for entrance. The committee will attempt to choose the best sixteen teams from those making application, and it is desired that each team making application send a record of games played, won and lost.

Margaret Nelson and Mable Rahm rolled into first place in the doubles of the 1928 annual bowling tournament of the Appleton Women's club league Monday evening on the Arcade alleys smashing the maples for counts of 539 and 456 respectively, for a 995 total score. The pair took an easy lead over the second place duo, M. Ingenthron and S. Doell who had a 929.

Third place was a close battle. W. Lindberg and S. Heinritz beating out C. Kositzke and D. Doyle by two pins and the same was true of fifth where M. Galpin and N. Huebner beat E. Bernhardt and L. Hollenbeck by three pins. Nineteen couples of 38 bowlers rolled in the meet which was held at the Arcade alleys.

Another three-game sweepstakes will be held at the Elk alleys Saturday afternoon and evening, according to Clarence Currie, alley manager. The entry fee will be $1 a man for each game as usual and a kegler may enter as many times as he desires.

New York—(AP)—Jockey Earl Sande, recently reinstated in good standing on the turf, is now galloping horses at Belmont Park in preparation for his return to the track. He was scheduled to report at Joseph E. Widener's stable in Kentucky but changed his plans to await the arrival of Widener's stock due here within a few days.

Chicago—(AP)—Sixteen-year old Jane Fauntz of the Illinois Women's Athletic club who many critics were certain would never regain her stroke because of an automobile accident last summer, Tuesday held two new world's swimming records.

Leading the I. W. A. C. to an easy 48 to 16 triumph over the Canadian champions, the Parkdale Dolphins of Toronto, Monday night, Miss Fauntz shattered the international record in the 100-yard and 100-meter breast stroke. The I. W. A. C. relay team established a national record in the 160-yard relay a teammate, Violet Martin, broke the national mark in the 40-yard back stroke and Walter Lauffer, Lake Shore Athletic club, Chicago, who swam in a special event, excelled his own two-year old national record in the 300-yard medley event.

The new and old records:
100-Yard breast stroke: New record by Miss Fauntz, 1:29.3. Old record by Agnes Geraghty, New York, 1:20.4.
100-Meter breast stroke: New record by Miss Fauntz, 1:29.3. Old record by Miss Geraghty, 1:31.
160-Yard relay: New record by the I. W. A. C., 1:31.4. (Team—Dagny Van Maarth, Emma Shemaltis, Mary Lou Quinn, Ethel Lackie). Old record by I. W. A. C., 1:32.4.
40-Yard back stroke: New record by Miss Martin, 27 seconds. Old record by Sybil Bauer, Chicago, 27 1-5 seconds.
300-Yard medley swim: New record by Lauffer, 3:43. Old record by Lauffer, 3:45.2.

George Ward, with a score of 671, won the sweepstakes bowling tournament of the Elk alleys the last week-end. Frank Fries was second with a 623 count, Henry Strutz was third with 619. George Schommer was fourth with 617, W. C. Jacobson was fifth with 603 and Henry Kositzke was sixth with 599. All other entrants finished below the money.

Another three-game sweepstakes will be held at the Elk alleys Saturday afternoon and evening, according to Clarence Currie, alley manager. The entry fee will be $1 a man for each game as usual and a kegler may enter as many times as he desires.

DOUBLE JINX

KIMBERLY BLUE MOONS TIE VALLEY LOOP MARK

In the final game of the season in the Fox River Valley Bowling League, the Kimberly Blue Moons took three games of a match with the Electric Cities of Kaukauna and in doing so tied the high team series record for the season, 3029. The match was rolled Monday evening at the Kimberly alley. The Hoppers Wiensers, a league-leading team, had set the 3029 mark which the Kimberly tied in the very last game of the league.

C Van Haelst led the Blue Moons to victory with high game of 245, a 255, and high series of 645, though C Van Able trailed with a game of 245 and series of 631. Van Haelst also had a 213 game and Verbaten, a 266. For the losers H. Minkebege had high game of 202, the only double century mark for his team, and P. Smith had high series of 533. Other 200 games were rolled by Verbaten and A. Becklin of the winners with 215 and 239, respectively.

BELL JOINS HORNSBY WITH BOSTON BRAVES

Baseball people were surprised when the St. Louis Cardinals traded Lester Bell to the Boston Braves for Andy High and a cash consideration. Bell was the star third baseman on the club that won the world's series for St. Louis in 1926 and, after a bad season last year, was figured for a comeback this year. He may be a big star with the Braves as he will be playing with Rogers Hornsby again and the St. Louis folks think it was the Ragah who made him a player with the Cards.

MAC'S FOODS CLAIMANT OF CITY BASKET TITLE

As the result of a one-sided 43-21 victory over the Sophomore Triangle club "cagers" Saturday evening at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium, the Mac's Foods basketball team, is claiming the Appleton city championship for teams composed of boys of 16 years of age and under. The Foods base their claim on the fact that they include wins over every junior high school team of the city.

The Foods led 5-4 at the quarter but had increased the score to 15-8 at the half, outscoring their foes, 10-4. The third quarter went to the Foods, 7-5, to give them a 22-13 lead in the final period the winners' snappy passing attack was too much for the Triangles, breaking through with ease in a final spurt and scoring basket after basket, for a 21-8 lead.

Crane and Bauer, forwards, and McCanna, center, led the winners with six baskets and two free tries, seven and one and six and two, respectively. Christian and Holderman played the guards. For the losers Burns scored five baskets for 10 of 21 points, Lonsdorf added three, Foote one and a free try and Scott one. Other Triangle players were Tretten and Ventur.

CROMWELL HAS CRACK HURDLER IN MORTENSEN

Los Angeles—This certainly won't be good news to a lot of college athletes—southern California has a hurdle race to be another Kenneth Grumble.

Just to refreshen your memory, Grumble was national intercollegiate hurdling champion for two years while running for Dean Cromwell. He was noted for his ability to run several races a day without slowing down in speed.

The future star is Jesse Mortensen, who starred in basketball this year, and who is showing all around track ability. He is new at the game, but Coach Cromwell hopes to develop him enough to make him a formidable hurdler this season and perhaps a national champion next year.

Y VOLLEYBALL TEAMS SWAMP OSHKOSH MEN

Two teams of volleyball players representing the Appleton Y. M. C. A. just about cleaned up everything in sight in a set of matches with two Oshkosh squads Monday evening at Oshkosh. The local teams played the Paine Lumber Co. and Oshkosh Elk crews as practice for the annual state tourney which they will enter. The meet is in April at Green Bay.

The local teams lost but one game in twelve to the Oshkosh men and that by three points. First, team No. 1 of Appleton lost to the Elks, 15-13 and 15-2, and team No. 2 whipped the Paine Co., 15-4, 15-6 and 15-11. Then team No. 1 beat the Paines men, 15-5, 15-2 and 15-4, and the No. 2 squad whipped the Elks, 12-15, 15-7 and 15-9 losing the first game.

The Appleton teams were composed of Lu R. V. Landis, Alfred Bradford, Fred Schmitz, Alva Carl, A. C. Bomley, J. E. Murphy, John Bartman, John Neller, F. C. Reuter, Guy Barlow, Dr. G. W. Carlson and Herbert Satterstrom.

ASKEATON CAGE FIVE PLAYS HERE TUESDAY

The Ashkeaton city team, one of the strongest in the villages of this district, will be guests of the Basing Sports of Appleton in a game at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium at 8:15 Tuesday evening. The Sports lineup has been strengthened to meet the invader and will include such men as Ziesman and Hellman, former Lawrence college players.

Won't Join Toronto
Because he wants to play in Texas, native state, Rip Collins, former league hurler, has refused to report to Toronto and insists that he be traded to a southern team.

HOT FROM TRAINING CAMPS

Tampa, Fla.—(AP)—The last practice session of the training season before the long grind of the regular campaign was behind the Washington Senators Tuesday as they warmed up for the first of two exhibition games with the St. Louis Cardinals.

Oakland, Cal.—(AP)—Seasickness Monday broke the monotony of the Pittsburgh Pirates when they ferried across San Francisco Bay only to find rain had caused postponement of the first game with Oakland.

Donnie Bush put the boys through the paces, however. He believes his athletes are not ready for the race.

St. Petersburg, Fla.—(AP)—Red Sweeney, rookie pitcher is still with the Cincinnati Reds. The Spartanburg club of the Carolina League have notified Manager Jack Hendricks that they could not use him.

The game scheduled with the New York Yankees Tuesday was the last scheduled for the Reds in Florida.

Augusta, Ga.—(AP)—With Eddie Roush in top form at the start of the season, Manager McGraw hopes his heretofore belated outfielder will do some hard slugging to put the Giants in front at the outset of the National League drive. Roush performed in great style before his chief Monday whacking out three triples in New York's 7 to 1 decision over the Red Sox.

West Palm Beach—(AP)—Wilbert Robinson, the rotund general of the Brooklyn Robins, is peeved because Bert Shotton, Philadelphia manager, has picked his club to beat out the Robins in the National League pennant pursuit.

"But must think his club is going to win the pennant because everyone is saying we will be the team that will bear watching when the dog days roll around," declared Robbin.

Fort Myers, Fla.—(AP)—After eight years of conscientious effort, Howard Ehmke, lanky right hander of the Philadelphia Athletics, believes he has mastered the "hesitation pitch."

His "hesitation" consists merely of a pause in his windup designed to throw the batter off his stride.

Tuesday was "Connie Mack day" in Fort Myers. A half holiday was declared and a program of parades and speech-making in honor of the Athletics' manager was arranged.

Manager Mack announced that Calude Jonnard, pitcher, had been returned to the Milwaukee club of the American Association, from which team he was purchased last fall.

Mr. Mack stated that he would have kept Jonnard, but for the other expensive players on his payroll.

Winter Haven, Fla.—(AP)—The Phillies break camp and head for the home town, where they are due Thursday.

During the last days in Florida the Phils found new collective batting eye and the pitching tightened noticeably.

Los Angeles, Calif.—(AP)—The bat of Kiwi Cuyler has led the Chicago Cubs to another exhibition game victory.

Driving out two home runs and a single, which accounted for four runs, the former "bad boy" of the Pittsburgh Pirates scintillated as the Cubs beat Los Angeles, 11 to 5, Monday.

Hard To Determine Between Sportsmen And Politicians

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington—The distinction between a politician and a statesman is sometimes hard to determine, but it may be that a statesman is the fellow who goes out and tackles a few issues while the politicians are all busy lining up votes, delegates and jobs in the next administration.

At the moment Senator William E. Borah is a towering figure because he is about the only big man of influence who is concentrating on issues instead of votes. For that reason he may exert an important effect on the forthcoming Republican convention and on the conduct of the next administration.

Idaho is booming Borah as a presidential candidate. He is much more than a mere favorite son, for he has a large number of supporters and a likely nominee because he has always been an independent Republican refusing to follow the politicians and standpatters except when he agreed with them. Borah knows as well as anyone that his course has cost him the support of the party politicians.

Borah, being a statesman, is disregarding many appeals from over the country that he campaign for nomination to lead a third party because he feels he can do more good by keeping out of political fights and campaigning for what he considers issues that are vital.

The principal Borah issues, as everyone knows, are law enforcement and the outlawing of war. With these he has done well in his one man fight. He has asked one candidate after another his attitude toward prohibition enforcement if elected and most have put themselves on record. He has given great impetus to the movement to demand a specific enforcement plank in the party platform and may be expected to fight for this to the end.

He also expects to obtain a strong plank favoring the outlawing of war. Borah has had tremendous success with this issue. Today, he has the Coolidge administration committed to the principle to the point that it has gone so far as to put Foreign Minister Briand of France in an embarrassing hole because Briand won't go as far in that direction as we will.

Borah, of course, regards war as an evil thing. But he is not campaigning against liquor as an evil thing. He believes that constitutional government is in danger as a result of the breakdown of prohibition enforcement over wide areas. He believes that the increase in crime, and especially of horrible crimes, is traceable to wide contempt for the dry laws.

Hence, he has said not merely that these laws must be enforced but that they either must be enforced or repealed to end an intolerable situation. He would have parties recognize responsibilities other than to business.

It has been shouted back at Borah that his questionnaires to presidential candidates were useless because they

HIGH SCORER OF HOCKEY LEAGUE AWARDED PRIZE

Montreal—(AP)—Howe Morenz, center player of the Montreal Canadiens and leading individual scorer in the National Hockey League, has been awarded the most valuable player to his team thereby earning possession of the Hart trophy for the next twelve months.

Morenz was voted the most valuable player award by a committee of hockey writers representing each city on the big league circuit. Out of a possible number of 140 votes Morenz received 123.

Carrigan Likes Braves
Manager Bill Carrigan of the Boston Red Sox thinks the Boston Braves will be a very formidable contender in the National League this summer.

New York—(AP)—Tony (Young) Marullo, New Orleans, won from Mike McTigue, New York (10).

Pittsburg—Mike Dundee, Rock Island, Ill., won from U. S. Carpenter, Pittsburg (5).

Now, he steps into the limelight nationally, by taking a collection to repay Harry Sinclair the $160,000 bonds the oil man gave the national committee in 1927. It is tainted money, Borah says, and the party must give it back.

At the Kansas City convention he may figure importantly in one way or another, but until he has finished his fight on issues he will take no part in the pre-convention campaign either in his own behalf or otherwise.

Hogan Celebrates Birthday
"Shanty" Hogan, the Giants' catcher, celebrated his twenty-second birthday while the Giants were in spring training. In an exhibition game that day he got two hits.

Moment Musicale (Schubert)
Rosamunde—Ballet Music (Schubert)
Leopold Stokowski and Phila. Symphony Orch.
In these two beautiful melodies, the first one orchestrated by Stokowski, there is unquestionably pathos; but there also is the happiness of life. The second, which must not be confused with the Rosamunde Entr'acte, in many ways resembles the Moment Musicale.

Carmen—Habenera (Love is Like a Wood Bird)
(Bizet) French
Carmen—Chanson Boheme (Les tringles de sœurs)
(Gypsy Song) (Bizet) French Maria Jeritza

Here are two recordings from the opera, made by Jeritza with the chorus of the Metropolitan Opera House. The Habenera, or "Wood Bird" song, is familiar to everyone who hears much music. The companion number, which has not grown hackneyed with much hearing, is the opening of the second act, in the tavern of Lillas Patiz. Its melody and rhythm, at once dreamy, sensuous and stirring, repeated over and over with characteristically Bizetian shifts of tonality, give to the whole scene a character that is quite unique. The use of the chorus in these two numbers, yields to the records the authentic atmosphere of the opera house. They are intensely vivid, keen, and heavily charged with half-Oriental colorings.

Wells and Dams

Australia has many large irrigation projects under way. There is a vast barren territory in Australia that artificial water can change into fruitful lands. Here an artesian well in Australia is shown. These wells are dug very deep and when water is struck it gushes up by its own force.

Thousands of acres in California are irrigated by ditches, supplied by dams. Here is a sluiceway in California.

Sometimes the water is carried to the trenches in wooden troughs. Several ditches like this irrigate a western walnut orchard.

The chief food of the Filipinos is rice and most varieties require lots of water. Interesting ways of irrigating the rice fields are adopted. In Java rice is grown in terraced fields, like the one above, which are abundantly irrigated and form one of the wonders man has added to Nature. (Next: The Romance of Oil)

"She's a Septic!"

To remedy obnoxious body odors and bad breath, you must recognize their cause. The trouble is deep-seated. Frankly, in the colon. Semi-constipation makes millions of systems septic. The bowels may move every day, but all the waste is not discharged.

The matter that remains is a slow poison. Yes, actual poison. It poisons the blood, and permeates the perspiration. It taints the breath! Not a pleasant condition to contemplate! But easy to correct: Nature is signaling her need of a little calcium.

Calcium works wonders in one's appearance, too. With the inner system sweet and clean, the complexion clears most marvelously. Eyes brighten. Teeth whiten. The tongue is no longer

Perhaps you are septic, and don't know it. Try a tiny bit of calcium, and see! It may make all the difference in the world. Leave harsh, habit-forming cathartics alone. You will never need them if you take an occasional calcium tablet.

CLAIMS SOIL REPAIRS IS ESSENTIAL TO GOOD FARMING

SHOULD MAKE YEARLY TESTS, COUNTY AGENT TELLS FARMER GROUP

Hundred Pea Growers in Vicinity of Dundas to Follow Kavanaugh's Advice

BY W. F. WINSEY
Dundas—One hundred pea growers of this vicinity, at their meeting in Dundas Hall Friday afternoon, made application to J. N. Kavanaugh, county agent, to have samples of their soils tested at the conclusion of his talk on soils and fertilization problems. Other speakers were Robert Baker, president and manager of the Baker Canning Co., who presided at the meeting and Mr. Woodhall, representing the Armour Fertilizer Works.

Maintaining in his talk that repairing the soil is more important on the farms than repairing fences, farm machinery and buildings, for the reason that the soil is the source of all farm incomes, Mr. Kavanaugh urged his hearers to secure at least $100 each year for soil repair. He asked each farmer to have the soil of his fields tested by the College of Agriculture before buying any kind of fertilizer so that the purchase might be made intelligently and no money wasted where no fertilizer is needed.

LIKE MANUFACTURERS
As a sort of an introduction, Mr. Kavanaugh said that a certain farmer explained that he did not attend farmers' institutes nor soils meetings because he already knew a great deal more about farming and soil fertility than he was practicing.

The farmer is a manufacturer, said Mr. Kavanaugh, in as large a sense as is the man who makes farm machinery or automobiles. Both use raw material and convert it into a finished product ready for the use of the customer. The greatest difference between the processes of the two classes is that the one can make the material that he uses, estimate the amount he has on hand and the additional amount he may need, but the other can not see his raw material estimate the amount on hand, determine the daily consumption nor decide on the kind and quantity he may need.

He said there were soil specialists, however, who can tell the amount of each kind of raw material out of which farmers, cooperating with nature, manufacture grain and all other farm products was originally in the soil, how much of each kind has been used and how much remains. The specialist can tell us how much of each kind of fertilizer leaves the farm in each thousand pounds of pork sold, each cow, each ton of hay and each bushel of grain. They tell us that phosphate is one of the raw materials we use, that lime is another, that nitrogen is another and that potash is still another. There are ten of these elements found in the air and soil that farmers are using in the manufacture of farm products.

NEEDS REPLENISHING
Experts also claim there was originally 2,000 pounds of phosphates in the soil and that that amount has been reduced in Brown-co to 300 pounds to the acre in some field tested and to 300 pounds in others. They tell us that 16 pounds of phosphates is removed from the farm with every cow that is sold and 20 pounds of phosphates from the soil.

Not more than 50 percent of the soil fertility sold in a manufactured form is returned to the farm soil through the medium of barnyard manure. With this fact in mind, the necessity of additional fertilizer is apparent.

The use of lime, potash and phosphate on soil is a new thing in this section of the state and, like the silo at first, those fertilizers are unpopular. But in older states these fertilizers are used with good results and are very popular. Before very long, most of the farmers of Wisconsin will have the soils of their fields tested and will be making soil fertility repairs as conscientiously and industrially as they are now repairing their fences, farm machinery and farm buildings. Then the soil, the feeder of the silo, will be more popular than the silo among farmers.

NEWS ABOUT PRICES PAID TO FARMERS

Madison—(P)—Fractional price advance of butter, cheese trading slow and irregular, decline in hogs and steady increase in cattle and sheep prices featured the markets of last week, according to the review of the state department of markets.

The reviews:
Light offerings and fractional price advances were the outstanding features of the butter markets during the past week. Medium and under-grades were especially light. Receivers held all grades quite closely and were able to obtain premiums. Demand was active but trade was restrictive at times on account of light offerings. Toward the end of the week top scores were in ample supply and more freely offered. Medium and lower grades continued in light supply. At the close of the week trade was dull, buyers showing very little interest. Centralized car market trading was fair under moderate supplies and a fair demand. Butter prices are about 9 cents higher than last year at this time.

Trading on cheese was slow and irregular. Most buyers showing little interest and confining their business to small lots. Prices are two and one-half cents higher than last year at this time.

In spite of material decrease in hog receipts, prices declined, the reason being the current supplies are reasonably heavy. The decrease ranged from 10 cents to 30 cents on the better grade hogs, the other classes showing greater losses. Prices are about $2.90 lower than last year at this time.

Cattle prices are about $2.20 higher and sheep prices about 90 cents higher than last year at this time.

Says Breeding Is Secret Of Championship Litters

Good breeding and constant care is the secret of raising championship ton litters, according to August H. Speersneider whose 1926 entry won the state championship ton litter contest and whose 1927 entry won both state and national honors.

BY W. F. WINSEY

New Franken—When August H. Speersneider won the state ton litter contest over all other breeds and contestants in 1926 with twelve Chester White pigs, some of his rivals dubbed his success a fluke. But the fact that he came back again in 1927 with another litter of twelve pigs and won not only the state championship and record but the national championship also goes to prove that when he started raising pigs he selected a good breed, and, since that time, that he has developed an excellent strain. His winnings in county, state and national contests goes to prove that in swine sanitation, feeding, care and judging of hogs, Mr. Speersneider has developed into an expert who does not rely on flukes.

As a summer can tell a novice just how to keep on the surface and to move about, so Mr. Speersneider can tell the beginner just how to select, feed and rear hogs but the instruction and the practice on which his outstanding success as a breeder of hogs depends were not acquired by word of mouth and cannot be so imparted. Any farmer can do well and make money raising hogs but to beat

UNDER PAPER SYSTEM OF GARDENING GIVES WONDERFUL RESULTS

Poorer the Soil, the Better the Crop, Experiments With New Method Show

BY W. F. WINSEY

DePere—No hoeing, no weeding, no cultivating, no weeding, lots of fertilizer developed in the soil, lots of warmth and lots of moisture and a yield of garden vegetables increased from one garden vegetable increased from 100 to 500 percent, over the yield of old methods, inviting characteristics of the new, under-paper system of gardening, soon to be tried out in this city by C. C. Phelps and other garden enthusiasts of this locality.

The essential feature of the under-paper gardening is a roll of black asphalt paper. Where the seeding is to begin, a strip is unrolled across or lengthwise of the bed. Along either edge of the strip of paper, the seed is planted. Before each succeeding row of seed is planted, an additional strip of paper is placed on the bed with the edge in contact with the carpeting already done. This process of laying strips of paper and seeding along the outer edge is continued until the bed is seeded and carpeted. The young shoots show themselves at the proper time between the strips.

In the case of transplanted plants, such as tomatoes, the bed is carpeted with the strips of paper and holes are cut in the carpet where the plants are to be set.

This under paper system of raising vegetables has passed the experiment at stage and is said to be not only reliable but exceedingly productive. The paper retains the moisture in the soil, absorbs the heat from the sun and passes it to soil and promotes the collection of nitrogen by creating the conditions under which bacteria are the most active.

One of the advantages of the under-paper gardening, is that vegetables can be grown farther north than is possible under the old methods. In Alaska the garden can raise all kinds of vegetables raised in Wisconsin in England and Scotland the people are planning to raise sweet corn and tomatoes for the first time, outside and exposed to the weather and short seasons.

One of the most noticeable differences between ordinary gardening and under-paper gardening, is that the poorer soil appears to give the largest yield in the new kind of gardening while the largest yields under ordinary gardening comes from the richest soils. Under dry season cultivation the crop grown under paper gives a much greater yield than does the crop grown in the ordinary way in wet seasons when the growing conditions are at the best.

FIND WAY TO TAKE NITROGEN FROM AIR

BY BASCOM N. TIMMONS
Washington—Chemical fixation of nitrogen derived from the air is an industrial process that has advanced rapidly in recent years, according to the Department of Agriculture. This infant industry is now producing synthetic nitrogen salts in such quantity that the current supplies are reasonably heavy. The decrease ranged from 10 cents to 30 cents on the better grade hogs, the other classes showing greater losses. Prices are about $2.90 lower than last year at this time.

Cattle prices are about $2.20 higher and sheep prices about 90 cents higher than last year at this time.

Here And There Among The Farmers--

BY W. F. WINSEY

A representative of Blott Brothers, Waukegan, in the Green Bay and De Pere territory trying to pick up a carload or more of dairy cows. The buyer is assisted by Joseph Hoecker, DePere, a local cattle dealer. Blott Brothers could use 200 cows at once if they were to be had.

August Klitzke, route 2, Appleton, lately bought a supply of White Dent seed corn from a Stephenville farmer whose corn ripened last fall and was properly cured. Mr. Klitzke intends to plant 20 acres of corn this spring, and with the crop to cut down the expense of buying feed for his dairy cattle. It now is costing him $3.50 daily. This summer, he will have ten acres of meadow, part of which is seeded with alfalfa and the balance with timothy and red clover. For pasture he has a six acre wood lot and about nine acres of tame pasture. Although he still has a large quantity of red clover, alfalfa and timothy hay in his barn, he has been buying grain which he uses comparatively early, but to raise a litter of 12 pigs which weigh 3,398 pounds at 180 days of age is not easy. To produce a successful ton litter one must start back several generations to produce a sire and dam which will transmit large frames and good growing qualities to their progeny.

"The sire of my state champion ton litter two years ago was also the sire of my state and national champion ton litter in 1927. This proves that the obtaining of a first prize ton litter is not an accident but is the result of a constructive line of breeding extending back many years."

"The reason so many ton litters fall down in competition is that the litters come from ordinary and not exceptional strains and belongs to a class which no feeding and care can convert into a champion ton litter." Farmer Jones says. "A pig is a pig as long as he lives." I agree with farmer Jones but our records show that no champion ton litter in this state ever descended from a grade sire nor grade dam.

"One of the best places to find the best type of hog is in the show ring. I have been in the ring with my hogs the past fifteen years and at the present time my hogs proved themselves good enough to make a state championship record in 1926 and state and national championship record in 1927. In 1926, my ton litter competed with 69 ton litters of Wisconsin and in 1927 my ton litter competed with 103 ton litters in Wisconsin and probably hundreds of others in the nation. Only 37 per cent of the ton litters of Wisconsin in 1927 qualified."

"This small percentage of ton litters qualifying is due to poor breeding stock. Some people prefer short legged hogs which are chubby and low down with wide, coarse shoulders. This type of hog is the type that falls down in the production of litters. I prefer a good purebred Chester White, tall, long, with a good arched back, long sides with a good heart, a pig with straight legs that stands up well on its toes. Give good feed and care to this type of hog, mixed with a little common sense, and it is on the road to success in ton litters."

"Three days before farrowing time I put my sows in a clean farrowing pen after I have thoroughly scrubbed the pen with hot water and lye. I wash and disinfect the udder of sows with a weak solution of lye. I often stay up all night with a sow at farrowing time. My farrowing pen is warm and is provided with fenders to prevent the little pigs from being crushed by the dam. My pen is provided with a creep through which the little pigs go out into the sunlight and to their trough. At three weeks of age the little pigs eat wheat middlings, table salt meal and the ground barley with the hulls removed, fixed with fresh milk."

"Besides alfalfa pasture, my ton litter of 1927, consumed 2,198 pounds of wheat middlings, 425 pounds of vetch, 712 pounds of fine ground barley, 613 pounds of corn meal, 6,476 pounds of skim milk, 7,213 pounds of buttermilk, 20 pounds of common salt, four bushels of charcoal, an abundance of pure water."

"Had I not shown my 1927 ton litter at the county fair before the 180 pound period was finished, I am quite positive that the litter would have reached 4,000 pounds or more at the time of official weighing. At weighing time the litter had no more than recovered from the setback it suffered at the fair."

"I have lived on the Shanty Farm, Home of Chester White Hogs, since 1911. I have 50 acres of land and have always raised Chester White purebred hogs on my farm. The second year that I showed at the Northeastern Wisconsin fair, I won first premium on produce of sow and set of sire and have won this premium ever since. A year before last was the first year I entered the state ton litter contest and I won with a weight of 3,095 pounds. The sire of that litter was Advance Type Second, No. 255,305."

FUEL AND OIL SAVING EQUALS HIGHWAY COST

Washington—(P)—Last year more than 25,000,000 motor vehicles were responsible for nearly 150 billion vehicle miles of travel in the United States.

Scientific investigations show that tremendous reductions in the costs of operating motor trucks and automobiles. The federal bureau of public roads is confident that the saving in fuel and oil and in wear and tear on vehicles is much more than the annual expenditures for improved roads.

GIVE DEMONSTRATION ON ORCHARD PRUNING

College of Agriculture Man and County Agent Visit in Outagamie-co

BY W. F. WINSEY

Orchardmen of Outagamie-co are making a study of ways and means of producing a crop of first class apples this spring. The orchardists are being assisted by C. L. Kuehner, orchard specialist of the College of Agriculture, and Robert Amundson, county agent, who conducted pruning demonstrations in several orchards recently. The speakers talked about pruning, fertilizing and spraying orchards as necessities in the production of big yields of first class apples for home use and the market. After the demonstration in pruning was completed in each of the orchards visited, a meeting was held at which the speakers discussed care and general management of the farm orchard under the above mentioned subjects.

These pruning demonstrations were held and the discussions took place on the farm of Edward Holz, Black Creek George Weiling, town of Center; E. O. Mueller, town of Grand Chute; Charles Schroeder, Greenleaf; Malachi Ryan, Buchanan; and O. W. Barber, Oneida.

products are one of the main supports of Danish agriculture. It is impossible, the farmers say, to fatten a pig now without loss. Their leaders describe the situation as critical.

SPANISH KING IS FOND OF LIQUOR MADE FROM HONEY

Madrid, Spain—(P)—King Alfonso is deeply interested in the science of beekeeping. He has ordered 1,000 hives to be placed in the royal park of the palace and has promised to give further orders for his country estates.

During a visit of the king to the bee society's headquarters he tasted the wines and spirits made from fermented honey and said they were excellent. Many persons prefer them to the wines and spirits made from grapes.

The leading apiculturist of Spain is Antonio Garay Vitorica, who, on his estate at Claveria, Caceres, has 1,500 hives.

CANADA REPORTS LESS CHEESE AND BUTTER

Washington—The butter and cheese industry of the prairie provinces of Canada suffered a notable decline in 1927 as compared with previous years, according to Consul Rollin R. Winslow in a report made public by the Department of Commerce today. Butter production alone decreased about 25 per cent as compared with 1926. Factors which contributed to the decline of the industry were, first, the increased import duty on butter under the American tariff which became effective in 1926, second, the shortage of feed in western Canada during the summer of 1926, and third, the heavy exports of cattle in 1927.

BIG ATTENDANCE AT FARM SOILS MEETING

Many Brown-co Farmers Want Their Soils Tested Before Planting Spring Crops

BY W. F. WINSEY

Green Bay—A total of 800 farmers attended the soils meetings conducted in Brown-co last week. Five hundred samples of soil were handed to J. N. Kavanaugh, county agent, to be tested. Each farmer present at the meetings, declared that if the analysis showed a deficiency of plant food, he would order superphosphate or whatever was found lacking in his soil to make it productive. As a part of the soils program, competitive essays on the Need of Phosphates in the soils of Brown-co were written by the pupils of the rural schools and are being forwarded to the College of Agriculture where they will be judged by C. J. Chapman, Griffith Richards and A. R. Whitson, soils specialists. The premiums for the winners are $5.00, $3.00, $2.00 and $1.00.

As follow up movements, the Make Clover and Alfalfa Sure Crop Survey of the College of Agriculture and Brown-co is sending application blanks to rural students of the county to be given to parents. After the blanks are filled, they will be returned as requests for soil tests to the office of the county agent. A soils meeting will be held at Champion on March 29 and another at Bellevue on March 30. At each of these meetings, J. N. Kavanaugh and H. R. Lethrope, agricultural agent, Keweenaw-co, will be the principal speakers.

PROLONGED DRY SPELL CUTS ARGENTINE EXPORTS

Washington—Exports of butter from Argentina in 1927 amounted to 16,738,000 pounds, the lowest since 1920 when exports amounted to 36,817,000 pounds, according to the report by Ernesto Tornquist & Co., received in the Department and made public today. Cheese exports have continued low but have increased slightly in the last two years from the low mark of 1925 when 661,440 pounds were exported. Exports of cheese in 1927 amounted to 1,323,000 pounds. According to Messrs. Tornquist & Co. the dairy industry in Argentina has passed through an unsatisfactory period owing to prolonged drought which prevailed nearly all through the winter. Production declined considerably, resulting in an appreciable decrease in exportation. The industry has spared no effort to improve still further the quality of its products and it has elaborated new classes of butter which have met with favorable acceptance in England, the principal market.

The following is sample of the essays written by the pupils of the rural schools on The Need of Phosphates on the Soils of Brown County: "Phosphate is a necessity for all our agricultural crops. Without phosphates in the soil, the crops become diminished in yields."

We Announce A New Imported Rug

A loom has been perfected in Czecho-Slovakia which so faithfully reproduces ancient Oriental rugs that the reproductions are scarcely distinguishable from the originals.

ALL the characteristics of Orientals are found in these new rugs; they are seamless with a high pile of strong, soft, luxurious yarn in colors as delicate and as skillfully blended as in the finest Orientals. The patterns, extending through to the other side as in hand-made rugs, are exact copies of antique pieces hanging in famous museums.

In short, they combine the great beauty and charm of Orientals with the strength and firmness of the best machine-made fabrics and cost very little more than the better grades of domestic rugs.
